FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

IS DULY INCORPORATED FROM FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

The Latter as a Church no Longer Exists—The Lessees Make the Next Move.

The First Trinitarian Congregational church is now an incorporated body. The recently applied for act of incorporation was granted Monday.

There were no special privileges mentioned in the act, but all the right, title and privileges heretofore vested in the church as it existed is now in the corporate body.

No immediate action in the way of removal from the old place will be made.

It is reported that the anti-Kenngottians will meet tomorrow night and discuss another act of incorporation.

At last prayer meeting, it is said, there was a little breeze as follows:

Deacon O. A. Brigham stepped to the platform to preside when he found there the Rev. Dr. Dick, who has been preaching for the lessees. Ex-Deacon Merrill stated that Mr. Dick had been asked to preside.

Deacon Brigham asked if it were not a regular church meeting.

Deacon Merrill replied in the affirmative, but said, "We thought as you folks had got out, we would get some one to preside," or words to that effect.

Deacon Brigham replied that "the folks" had not got out yet. When they did they would give due notice. He then presided at the meeting, and at the close invited Rev. Mr. Kenngott to pronounce the benediction.

MATRIMONIAL.

Miss Nellie Callahan was married yesterday afternoon to Mr. Richard Helliwell, the popular member of the Reform club. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Ronan in St. Peter's church. Miss Rachel Stowell was the bridesmaid, and Thomas F. Carty the best man. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Helliwell will reside at their home in Lawrence street.

Wilson—Chalmers.

Mr. James Wilson and Miss Margaret W. Chalmers were married last evening at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Deborah Chalmers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George C. Wright in the presence of the family and intimate friends. Mr. Moses MacKelvey gave the bride away. She was beautifully attired in white lansdowne with roses and was attended by Miss Elizabeth MacKelvey. Mr. Chalmers was best man. The happy couple afterward held a reception at Caledonian hall and left the city on a late train. They were the recipients of many presents.

FOR THE FOURTH

Great Preparations for the Big Celebrations.

THE PARADE AND OTHER FEATURES UNIQUE.

Stores Will be Closed and Everybody Will Celebrate.

The excitement of the approaching celebration has already set in and yesterday gave some evidence that with the inevitable small boy the preliminaries of the celebration were in progress.

It was only a fire cracker that exploded but it set a house on fire and threatened the destruction of a dwelling. Was the small boy amazed? Not at all. He rather likes that kind of excitement and from now until about the sixth of July the fire department will have to make many hasty responses to alarms caused by the small boy and his explosives.

It is expected of course that the usual number of boys will get their faces scorched by powder, their fingers blown off by cartridges which hang fire and that one or two will get shot by "the didn't know it was loaded fiend."

All these incidental evils have come to be accepted as the inevitable accompaniments of a good celebration.

There will be other mishaps of course. Some of the bloomer girls on wheels will have their undergear scorched; but it will be so nice to give their escorts an opportunity to make a heroic rescue.

The expectations of the people will be fully realized in the coming celebration. The public at large is confident that the observance in all its features will be one of the greatest ever held in this city.

The parade promises to surpass anything of the kind ever held here while the fireworks, the sports, and the entertainments will be unique.

The money will not this year be wasted on a balloon ascension with which the people are all familiar. The Lowell residents have seen such ascensions and parachute jumps at Lakeview and Glen Forest and they would not now appreciate them as features.

Manchester, N. H., will this year have a monopoly of balloon ascensions and it is welcome to them. Lowell will have something better by far in its list of sports, its magnificent parades, band concerts and fireworks.

All the stores of any account will be closed. The local barbers, led by Young, Bell, Paradis, Lynch and Tenny, have agreed to close and they hope that all the others will fall in line and close also.

They will be open till after midnight on the "night afore," and will give everybody a good chance to get a clean shave either late at night or early in the morning.

The fact that the following day is Sunday makes it more difficult to close; but those who are accustomed to daily shaves in barber shops can try their hand at shaving themselves for one day if the cannot bear one day's growth of hair. Anybody who wants to get rid of whiskers will have ample opportunity of so doing by knocking around the streets where fire crackers are thickest on the "night before the Fourth." And this method, while being quicker than the ordinary, will have the additional advantage of singeing and removing the "Fuskers" at the same time, and all free of charge.

Mr. Glidden of the Sun Building decided a week ago to close regardless of any who may keep open. He says it is none of his business what other barbers wish to do. He wishes to celebrate, and is willing to go it alone.

The clothing stores will be closed, as will the dry goods stores and the wet goods as well.

There will be a general cessation of business along the streets, with the exception of restaurants, fruit dealers, soda fountains and the dispensers of the pure red lemonade, 5 a glass.

The street railway will make a harvest on that day as it is expected that not less than 50,000 people will be transported from the surrounding towns and cities. Visitors need not be afraid to bring their pocketbooks with them although it is expected that fakirs and pickpockets will be here in considerable numbers, but the Lowell police will be on the alert and the crooks will be well watched.

The Fourth of July committee met last evening and appointed F. J. Simonds, D. H. Varnum and Rodney Hemenway judges for the Fourth of July parade.

Ex-Mayor Palmer and Col. Bennett declined to act as judges.

Patrick J. Lynch, Dr. W. H. Downs and George H. Stevens were chosen judges of the bicycle parade.

The route of parade was changed, so that instead of countermarching on Bridge street, the parade will go around through Reed street.

It was stated that Borjes' band will give concerts on Fort Hill park July 4.

In the Fourth of July parade there will be a bicycle battalion of police in charge of Sergt. Palmer.

Lakeview Theatre.

The program at the Lakeview theatre this week includes "The Sidmans," who are highly entertaining in a "Bit of Real Life;" Canfield & Carleton in a laughable operatic sketch; Alice Hodgdon, the lady whistler; Joe and Martin Flaherty in an exhibition of "How to train for a fight," including a three round bout. The program opens with a grand production of stereopticon views, which on the whole makes a highly pleasing entertainment.

ANOTHER COUNTY HEARING

Ordered by the County Commission in Cambridge Yesterday—The Mayor and City Solicitor Present.

The boulevard extension was thoroughly discussed yesterday, when Mayor Courtney and City Solicitor Qua, in response to a summons, appeared before the County commissioners in Cambridge to show reason why the Pawtucket boulevard should not be extended to the city line.

The statutes say that if a city or town does not comply with the decree of the County commissioners to build a road, the commission may order the work to be done and include the expense of so doing in the county tax of the city or town.

The city of Lowell did not comply with the request, and so a petition signed was presented to the commissioners asking them to do the work and charge the same to the city.

It was on this petition the hearing was held. Sheriff Cushing appeared in favor of the petition.

Mayor Courtney and City Solicitor Qua argued that the movement is in the interest of the Country club. They claimed the city has spent a large amount of money on the boulevard and cannot afford to put any more into its extension.

Furthermore, the commissioners had voted to pay $9000 of the county tax to Tyngsboro to aid that town in building its share of the road to the northerly end of the Tyngsboro bridge. This amount is nearly sufficient to pay the town's whole expense on the road; so that, as Lowell pays one sixth of the county tax, she would not only have to pay for her own road but would actually have to pay a sixth share of Tyngsboro's road. This, it was argued, is manifestly unfair and if the city of Lowell should have to construct the new road as decreed, the Lowell representatives thought the county should help bear the cost.

It was announced that if the city will extend the boulevard the state highway commissioners will bear the expense of caring for it.

THE INDEPENDENTS WON.

Exciting Election at the Mathews Last Night.

The Mathews, last night, voted to decorate their hall with flags and bunting on July Fourth. It was also decided to hold a ball in Huntington hall October 2.

The election of officers was very heated and exciting and resulted in the success of the independent ticket. The officers are as follows: President, John Burns; vice president, John J. Gallagher; treasurer, Daniel J. Desmond; financial secretary, P. F. Nestor; recording secretary, John J. Pinder; spiritual director, Rev. Fr. McManus; literary committee, Henry Doran, William Smith, Thomas Garvey; board of examiners, James Clark, Thomas Moyland, Patrick Riley trustees, Patrick Costello, John Lynch, William Welch.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember

BRISK FIRE

Caused by a Fire Cracker on Chapel Street.

The "Fourth of July" fires started in yesterday, when a firecracker caused a blaze in the house at 110 Chapel street owned by Owen Cahill and occupied by Arthur O'Neil. The alarm from box 15 was sounded at 4.51 and when the department arrived the fire had worked its way up to the roof. It was extinguished after doing $100 damage.

There was a slight blaze in Otis Allen & Sons' box shop yesterday afternoon. It was extinguished by the engineer, James Merchant.

DEATHS.

MAUDE—Mary Maude, aged 45 years, wife of Frank Maude, died this morning at St. John's hospital. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from her home on Summer street.

McCANN—Mary McCann, aged 72 years, died yesterday at St. John's hospital. The funeral took place this afternoon and was very well attended. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

WEBSTER—Annie E. Webster, aged 52 years, died at St. John's hospital. She was the wife of Joseph Webster and resided in Gorham street.

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

There were four drunks. Three were fined $1 and the fourth $5.

Ellen Hessian, who was in a few days ago and afterwards discharged on a complaint of polygamy, was in again today for assaulting her sister-in-law, Margaret Platt, who had her arrested. Both showed black eyes and badly scratched countenances, and for appearances it must have been an even thing. The Platt woman said that the Hessian woman went to her house in search of satisfaction. She got it with a damaged face thrown in as a side issue.

A little girl said that the Hessian woman wanted 10 cents to buy beer and not getting it started a fight. The Hession woman insisted that the Platt woman delivered the first blow. She says she went there for a black satin waist belonging to her and that the Platt woman refused to give it to her. Of course the Platt woman said that it was no such "thing." The defendant was fined $10.

Ellen Lynch was accused of stealing Officer Dennett's helmet, and she pleaded guilty, but afterwards said she knew nothing about the bonnet. The officer testified that while he was arresting Cornelius O'Hearn last Saturday from Mrs. Lynch's house the latter ordered him out, saying that he had no right in there without a warrant. The officer claimed also that the woman took the helmet and refused to give it up until she had seen her lawyer.

Mrs. Lynch claimed that she had no intention of stealing the helmet, and she didn't know where it was at present, and neither does officer Dennett. She was fined $10, and her council, Peter A. Fay, appealed.

Then followed a few words between the court and Lawyer Fay.

RAPPINGS HEARD

From the Entombed Miners at Twin Shaft.

ANOTHER CRASH OCCURRED OF FALLING ROCKS.

Which Dampened the Hopes of Rescuers.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 1.—There are 59 men, living or dead, imprisoned in the depths of the doomed Twin mine. This is the official number, and there is no reason to think it is incorrect. The company has completed a careful canvass of all men who were at work on Saturday night, and the sum total of the men lost in the disaster, English-speaking and foreigners, aggregate this figure.

At 8 o'clock last night, the situation was more encouraging than it had been at any time since the cave-in. At that hour, the men who had been at work since 3 o'clock came out, and the 8 o'clock men went on duty. The afternoon men reported that they had reached the edge of the fallen rock, and had begun to load it in cars, which are hoisted to the head of the slope by a stationary engine.

The point where the men are supposed to be is still 600 feet beyond. The night shift continued the work of loading the debris. The gas is not so bad as it has been, and there is no sign of the river water flowing into the mine. One of the miners said they had come across two cars containing a number of tools, of various kinds, which had been used by the miners.

A much larger crowd gathered about the workings yesterday, drawn, doubtless by the report that the miners had begun digging, and might find some of the bodies reasonably soon. Foreman Richards could give no definite idea of the progress of the workers, because it varies at different points, according to the solidity of the debris.

When the 11 o'clock shift came out of the mine, some of the men reported having heard what they thought were rappings in that part of the mine where the victims are supposed to be imprisoned. This immediately revived the hope that the men might be alive, although the officials place little reliance on this story. Five men, headed by Peter Lohr, volunteered to crawl over the walls and see what could be seen. They were told that they made the journey at their own risk, and replied that they were satisfied. They were Peter Lohr, Dave Connell, James Mahon, James O'Brien and James Lynott, all single men.

Another extensive cave-in occurred in the working of the Twin shaft early this morning. The cave-in was in that portion of the mine where the victims are thought to be. It made a terrible report, and was heard all over the town. The fall must have been a heavy one. It had the effect of driving the rescuers out of the slope, for the timbers around them immediately began to sway and crack. A fall in the slope may occur at any moment.

The news of the second cave-in had a most discouraging effect on everybody. The five men who volunteered to climb the walls were not caught in this morning's fall. They climbed safely to the head of the slope.

The mass meeting of citizens, held in the Pittston Opera House last night for the purpose of taking steps to provide relief for the families of the victims, was largely attended. Committees were appointed to solicit subscriptions and provide for the immediate relief of those in want.

Curtailing Mayor's Power.

Baltimore, July 1.—In the superior court yesterday, Judge Ritchie handed down an opinion adverse to Mayor Hooper in the case of Noble H. Creager, the council's appointee as collector of city taxes. The opinion holds that the action of the council in repealing the ordinance giving the mayor the appointive power was legal, and practically leaves the mayor with no powers, other than those of carrying out the dicates of the council. The Creager case is looked upon as a test case, and applies to all city offices formerly filled by the mayor.

Destructive Fire In Brooklyn.

New York, July 1.—Fire broke out about 12:30 o'clock this morning in George W. Piper's Long Island kindling wood factory, Brooklyn. The flames quickly extended to the extensive lumber yards of E. C. Smith, and from there to Ritchie, Brown & McDonald's iron works, posts, and McCord's iron works, and Braun & Bainbrick's asphalt works. Estimates on the loss range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

In Excess of Predictions.

Washington, July 1.—The indications now are that the excess of government expenditures for the fiscal year ending yesterday will be about $25,500,000, as compared with a deficit of about $43,000,000 for the fiscal year 1895. The receipts for the present month will exceed the expenditures by about $1,400,000.

Convicted of Murder.

Halifax, July 1.—The trial of Peter Wheeler at Kentville, for the murder at Bear River of Annie Kempton, was concluded yesterday. The evidence was all circumstantial. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, after being out a little over two hours. Judge Townsend then sentenced Wheeler to be hanged, Sept. 8.

Mrs. Stowe Dying.

Hartford, July 1.—Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famous author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is dying at her home in this city of congestion of the brain and paralysis. The end is expected within 24 hours.

Shaving It Down.

Washington, July 1.—The treasury yesterday lost $73,800 in gold coin, of which $50,000 was for export to Canada. This leaves the true amount of the gold reserve at the end of the fiscal year $103,519,318.

BRAVES OF SOUTH

Talk of the Past in Annual Convention.

OVATION TO WADE HAMPTON, WHO'S NOT SORRY.

For Having Fought With the Confederacy.

Richmond, July 1.—The sixth annual convention of the Confederate veterans met yesterday, in the vast and gaily decorated auditorium erected for the purpose at the exposition grounds in this city. Intermingled with the Confederate colors and battleflags are the northern flags, and just above the presiding officer's seat are two large spangled banners. Around the galleries are the coats-of-arms of all the late Confederate states. The auditorium, which can seat over 10,000 people, was comfortably filled, and presented a handsome appearance, when the arrival of General Gordon, commander-in-chief of the Confederate veterans, was greeted by cheers and the band played "Dixie." He was presented with a gavel made from a tree cut in the battlefield of Chickamauga. He then opened the convention by introducing Chaplain Jones of the Confederate veterans, who made a prayer.

GENERAL J. B. GORDON.

At the conclusion of the prayer, General Gordon introduced Governor O'Ferrall, who was on the program to welcome the veterans to Richmond, but that gentleman had barely started when a cheer broke forth from the far end of the auditorium, and General Wade Hampton was seen limping up toward the stand. His progress through the audience was greeted by the wildest cheers, and when at last he reached the stand, General Gordon announced him as the "brave commander-in-chief of the Confederate cavalry," which called forth another round of cheers and "rebel yells."

Order being restored, Governor O'Ferrall was reintroduced, and welcomed the veterans to Virginia. The governor's speech was an eloquent tribute to the bravery and fortitude of the Confederate soldiers. He asked: "Am I not voicing your sentiments, comrades?" and was answered by cheers. Governor O'Ferrall was followed by Mayor Taylor, who, as the head of the municipal government, welcomed the veterans once more to the historic city of Richmond.

At the conclusion of the mayor's address General Peyton Wise, chairman of the local reunion committee, formally turned over the hall to the convention, and then the regular proceedings began.

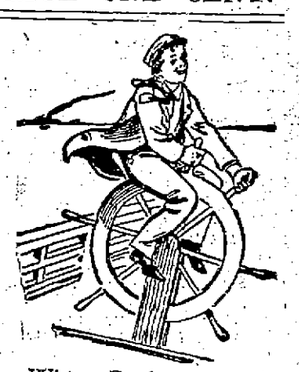

Several times during the day there had been calls for a speech from General Hampton. When General Wise took his seat the calls were renewed, and the South Carolinan walked to the front of the stage. The band struck up "Dixie," while the whole audience arose and applauded. A veteran then passed to the front, bearing an old battleflag that had been shot through in many places, and waved it before the vast assemblage.

When General Hampton was permitted to speak, some one cried "Louder!" "I used to be able to speak loud enough to make you charge," replied General Hampton. Words, he said, could not express his gratitude for the great honor which had been done him. He had come to mingle with the veterans perhaps for the last time, and do honor to the memory of that great man, President Davis. The general said that he would still be fighting if the Confederate flag were waving. He had no apology to make for his course. When his state called upon him, he went into war as a private, and served his country as best he could. The speaker paid a beautiful tribute to the private soldiers, and, in conclusion, said the only epitaph he wanted written on his tombstone was that he was a Confederate soldier.

General Gordon responded to the address of welcome, and received the building on behalf of the veterans. The general paid a glowing tribute to Virginia and Virginians, which was greeted with prolonged cheering.

After the announcement of the committee on credentials, General Stephen D. Lee was introduced, to present the report of the committee on history. It was a lengthy paper, and dealt with the whole subject of histories. The report recommended the establishment of a chair of American history in southern colleges and universities, and the most thorough teaching of history in the schools, public and private, throughout the south. The report concluded with an eloquent tribute to the Confederate soldiers and the southern women. After the appointment of certain committees the convention adjourned until today.

A reception was given in honor of Mrs. Jeff Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Hays, in the Confederate Museum last night, by the regents of that institution. The museum is the building formerly the White House of the Confederacy. When the hour fixed for Mrs. Davis and her daughter to arrive came, there was a solid mass of humanity in the streets about the house. So great was the crowd that all could not enter the house, and the two ladies bowed their acknowledgments from the windows. This satisfied many, who then withdrew, and later a number had an opportunity to meet Mrs. Davis and her daughter. Mrs. Davis stood in the rooms where in war times she held many receptions.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

At Fall River In Murder and Suicide.

JOHN CONNELLY CUT HIS SON'S THROAT

And Then His Own, Both Dying Instantly.

Fall River, Mass., July 1.—John Connolly, a mule spinner, aged 38, cut the throat of James, his 22-month-old son, and then cut his own throat, at his tenement on Orange street last night. A razor was used in both instances, and the neck was severed to the spinal column. Death was instantaneous in both cases. Connolly had been out of work for some time, and up till Sunday had been drinking hard. Then he took the pledge, and became very moody.

Mrs. Connolly had gone out on an errand at the request of her husband, taking with her the youngest child.

When she returned she found the dead bodies of elder child and husband on the floor.

The neighborhood was soon aroused, and the police and medical attendance were soon on hand. Connelly is believed to have been either insane or in delirium after a fit of drunkenness.

He is a brother of Thomas F. Connolly, the well known and highly respected labor leader of this city.

THE POLICE BOARD

Held a Meeting and Transacted Considerable Business.

The board of police met last evening and granted the following licenses:

Austin Keith, 415 Bridge street, druggist; Michael F. O'Brien, 23 Rogers street, common victualer; Wilfred S. Parker, 185 Middlesex street, auctioneer; Edward H. Blossom, 80 Gorham street, fish wagon; George C. Sewell, 43 Blodgett street, express.

Ernest E. London, 129 Howard street, applicant for hack license, and Haban Lotschitz, 129 Chelmsford street, junk collector; were given leave to withdraw.

The Boston Amusement Co., were given a two weeks license on Lakeview avenue open lot.

The following additional special officers were appointed for July 3, 4 and 5: Munroe Ross, James Boyle, Thos. Danahy, John Cote, Hermedos Santos, John Desmond, Michael McDermott, John Gorman, George Frane, Thos. Howarth, John Donchoe, Alfred Stokeham. These for parks and commons.

Specials for police force—Thomas Busby, 19 North street; James F. Brennan, 34 North street.

Peter Donahue for L. & S. R. R., for Dracut line.

All who have been granted licenses of any nature must take them out at once or they will be revoked. The superintendent will notify them.

All common victualers are ordered to place a sign over the establishment indicating the kind of business transacted at their places.

Col. Dimon consulted with the board in connection with the Fourth of July parade.

The democrats cannot afford to bolt at Chicago. Let the majority rule even if it silver.

The Concord Monitor truly says:

"Nasby is not a pretty word, but it is about the only one that applies to the New York World these days."

Apropos of the rumor of mills closing, the Salem News cries out, "I told you so." Of course nothing bad can happen which the calamity papers have not predicted.

Rev. Mr. Pitts of Lawrence criticizes Debs' discourse at that city. There was more religion in Debs' talk than in some sermons delivered by the reverend gentleman.

The Boston clergyman who preached on the bicycle Sunday should have given an exhibition in fancy riding after the service. That is the course usually followed by experts.

A certain scientific society sends out a circular trying to prove that hydrophobia is but a fancied disease. We surmise that the author of the circular does not speak from experience.

Nota Bene—Let all bicyclists give the sidewalks of Andover a wide birth. There is but one sidewalk in the town and the people may be excused for excluding bicyclists from using it.

The proposition of the Arkwright club to close the mills by common consent has been rejected by the mills of Lowell. The Arkwright club is getting out thus early to scare the people into supporting McKinley.

The trustees of the Textile school being largely Boston men, are not expected to give the interests of Lowell first consideration. In a short time these mill men will use the Textile school for their own benefit just as they use the mills regardless of the city's interests.

The horse deal is over and the public is convinced as to the nature of the transaction despite the efforts of Hunton's confreres to shield him from blame. The question now is what will be the result? Will Clapp be paid? Will Hunton be indicted? The matter will remain as it is until the committee makes its report.

The Lawrence Tribune admires Debs. It says:

"Eugene V. Debs made a lasting and favorable impression on the citizens of Lawrence. The pessimists who anticipated seeing a wild-eyed, dynamite and bomb-throwing advocate, were sorely disappointed when they met the mild-mannered, pleasant, but earnest and determined leader of organized labor in this country."

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

The Boston Herald, that has been shrieking for a gold standard, gets its wish in the republican platform. But the Herald is practically a free trade organ, and with the gold standard it gets the extreme of protection.

What will it do? Support the republican platform or part of that and part of the platform to be framed at Chicago? Verily it appears that no party can frame a platform to suit a mugwump. A good many other papers will be confronted with a like dilemma after the Chicago convention.

REVOLT AGAINST THE REUBENS.

The Haverhill Gazette denounces the type of legislator who is willing to sacrifice every other consideration in order to vent his spleen and gratify his prejudice by voting against Catholics. The Gazette says:

"The time has come for a revolt against the lobby republicans of Boston and their constant doctoring of laws, not for the benefit of, but to help along corporations, whose servants they are. One stands amazed at the amount of work done by this handful of men, and all through working the zealous A.P.A. elements who go to the legislature. Every act or alteration of law proposed for Boston is whispered as another blow aimed at the Know-nothings. And this is all the reason given to the Reubens who vote with them."

IT IS IDIOTIC.

The Sun recently referred to a petition to President Cleveland in circulation in this city. The petition deprecates any rupture of the friendly relations between this country and England and suggests on the contrary that an Anglo-American army be equipped to go to Turkey and if necessary take Constantinople.

The individual who is putting this petition around speaks with a decided English brogue and refuses to give his name. The petition is un-American and if everything was known it might be found that the secret service money of England is behind the movement. It is absolutely idiotic to advocate the Monroe doctrine as every good American must and at the same time to favor a movement that would send an American army to assist in taking Constantinople. If America wants to exercise her humanitarian offices she can do so by sending a couple of her ships to Cuba to deport Weyler and his butchers.

No Comparison.

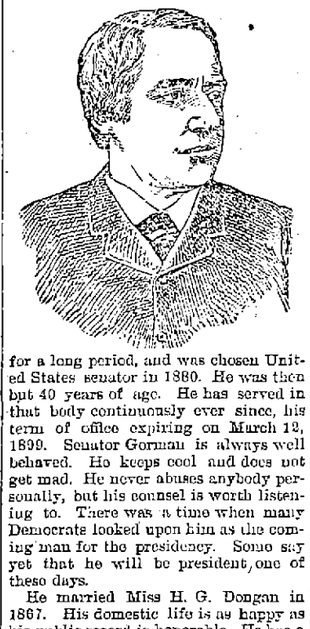

No printing establishment in this city compares with The Sun Job Print in its mechanical equipment and the excellence of its work. Did you ever try it?

ARTHUR P. GORMAN.

Sketch of Maryland's Shrewd Politician and Statesman.

Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland is one of the shrewdest politicians in the country. He is a past master in the art of reticence. Nobody ever knew him to harm himself or his party by a premature divulgement of his or its plans, and he is a natural leader of men. He was appointed a page in congress when he was a little shaver, and has trained under some very shrewd as well as wise politicians in his day. He used to be considered a bimetallist and a friend of silver, but latterly he seems to incline more to the interests of those vast business enterprises whose apprehension is excited by threats of radical financial legislation. His masterly opposition to the force bill some years ago won for him the deathless affection of the southern people, and he has great popularity in his own state.

He was born in Howard county, Md., March 11, 1839. When 13 years old, he became a page in the United States senate, and in 1866 he was postmaster of that body for a time. He was afterward revenue collector in Pennsylvania. He has served in the Maryland legislature for a long period, and was chosen United States senator in 1880. He was then but 40 years of age. He has served in that body continuously ever since, his term of office expiring on March 12, 1899. Senator Gorman is always well behaved. He keeps cool and does not get mad. He never abuses anybody personally, but his counsel is worth listening to. There was a time when many Democrats looked upon him as the coming man for the presidency. Some say yet that he will be president, one of these days.

He married Miss H. G. Dongan in 1867. His domestic life is as happy as his public record is honorable. He has a home near Laurel, Md., which is a model of completeness, simple elegance and comfort. One of the first tenets of Gorman's faith is that the conservative business sense of the country, as represented on the farms and in the stores, is the main thought. To that powerful sentiment he makes his appeals and toward that he directs his efforts. He is conservative upon the tariff question, not going absolutely to the lengths of the free traders, but he holds to the doctrine that a moderate amount of protection is for the good of the people.

HORACE BOIES.

Career of a Farmer, a Lawyer and a Statesman.

Horace Boies, who looms up among the Democratic possibilities as Iowa's favorite son, is a stanch adherent of free silver and tariff reform. He was born about 68 years ago in a little village near Buffalo. He was brought up on a farm and at the age of 16 left home to make a fortune for himself in the wilds west. He landed in Racine, Wis., with just 75 cents in his pocket. After working for farmers for awhile he returned to New York without a fortune, but with a determination to get an education. Supporting himself by doing chores for a lawyer, he attended the academy at Springville, N. Y., and applied himself diligently to the study of law.

In 1852 young Boies was admitted to the bar, took a wife and settled in the town of Hamburg, near Buffalo. At that time he was an active Republican and was rewarded by being sent to the state legislature. He had become one of the most prominent lawyers in the western part of the state and removed to Buffalo, where he met Grover Cleveland, then district attorney.

In 1867 Mr. Boies removed to Waterloo, Ia., the home of his wife's parents. He bought a large tract of land and acquired considerable political prestige. Up to 1882 he had been an ardent Republican, but in that year he came out for Mr. Cleveland, stumping Iowa in the interests of the latter and tariff reform. This made something of a sensation, and when in 1889 the Iowa Democrats nominated him for governor he was elected, it being the first time the party had won a state election in Iowa for 40 years. In 1891 Mr. Boies was renominated, but was defeated. Since that time he has lived quietly at Waterloo, where he carries on an extensive law practice and manages a farm of 2,500 acres in extent.

Mr. Boies is a very popular man in his party. He is what politicians call a "mixer," meeting all men on the same plane and extending cordial sympathy or a cheery greeting to high and low alike.

TIRED MOTHERS find help in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives them pure blood, a good appetite and new and needed STRENGTH.

JAMES SMITH, Jr.

The New Jersey Tariff Reformer and His Very Successful Career.

James Smith, Jr., has never held but two offices and the two are about as wide apart as the poles. The first call of the people seated him in an aldermanic chair in Newark, N. J., his home city, and the second call made him a member of the United States senate. Mr. Smith is a native of Newark, and very recently celebrated his forty-fifth birthday. He was trained for a business career and has devoted himself to the work before him with such ability and success that he has amassed a fortune. He manufacturers patent and enameled leather in Newark and has built up the largest business of the kind in the United States. Politics allured him from young manhood, but again and again he refused to enter the arena, preferring to serve as a private in the ranks and to attend strictly to his immense business affairs.

He was finally nominated for alderman, however, and despite the fact that his district was Republican he was elected by a majority that was greater than the number of votes his opponent secured. As further proof of the great confidence the city had in his discretion and quick judgment, he was nominated for mayor, but for private reasons declined. He was also honored by being tendered nearly every office in the gift of his party in the state of New Jersey, but felt that he could serve his state better as an humble worker.

In 1892, however, at the urgent request of his party he consented to stand for United States senator and was elected to the senate as a Democrat to succeed Hon. Rufus Blodgett, Democrat. He took his oath of office March 4, 1893—his term of office will not expire until March, 1899. He has made his presence felt since he took his seat in Washington and he is regarded as one of the ablest and most aggressive tariff reformers in the senate. He has a thorough grasp upon public affairs and when the proper occasion offers can make a speech worth hearing.

MRS. GOOLD'S GRATITUDE

HOW SHE WAS RESTORED TO HEALTH.

Condition Before and After the Birth of Her Child.

From every city, town and hamlet on this vast continent, come letters from suffering women; from those whose physicians have been unable to assist them, or from that numberless class whose confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the curative properties of her Vegetable Compound is unbounded.

Every letter received from women is recorded, and hundreds of volumes of cases treated aid in furnishing practical information for the women of to-day. No letters are published without the request of the writer. The strictest confidence is observed. The following letter represents thousands:—

"I always enjoyed good health until six months before the birth of my babe. Then I was very weak; my back ached all the time. My physicians said I would be all right after the birth of the child, but I was not, although at that time I had the best of care. The pains in my back were almost unbearable. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form; menstruations were painful.

"Any work or care would entirely unnerve me. When my babe was 11 months old, friends persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one bottle I felt the effects. My back did not ache so badly, and I felt stronger. After taking four bottles I felt well. My ambition returned, menstruations were painless, leucorrhœa entirely cured, and I could take care of my babe and do my housework. I shall always recommend your Vegetable Compound for all women, especially for young mothers."—Mrs. H. L. GOOLD, Oregon, Wis.

If Mrs. Goold had been well before the birth of her child, subsequent suffering would have been avoided. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should always be taken before and after birth, in order that the system may withstand the shock.

A BIG CONVENTION

At Chicago and the Men Who Will Lead.

HARRITY, VEST, DANIEL CAMPBELL AND BLACKBURN.

Speculation and Comment as to the Outcome.

One singular thing about national conventions is the unexpectedness with which they assume importance or become comparatively commonplace. Four years ago it was predicted confidently that the Republican convention at Minneapolis would be uninteresting and that the Democratic convention at Chicago would be exciting. The reverse was true. The Republican convention was one of the most exciting in the history of the party and the convention of the Democrats was cut and dried. So it was predicted six months ago that the Democratic convention this year would be commonplace and the convention at St. Louis, with its half dozen candidates running on even terms, would be exciting. Long before the Republican convention assembled its work was cut out for it, while the interest of the whole country has centered for many weeks in the convention at Chicago and its candidate. The hotel keepers of Chicago will be the beneficiaries of this condition of affairs, for, where they looked forward a few months ago to vacant rooms during convention week, they have now the prospect of overcrowded houses. Still the rates at the principal hotels have not been advanced, and at the best of them single rooms with meals have been rented for $5 each. Chicago has many hotels—too many for ordinary occasions. The big houses which were built for World's fair business stand half empty during a great part of the year, and one of the oldest and best of the big hotels of other convention years—the Grand Pacific—has been closed. But the Palmer House is still headquarters for many of the delegations, and the Auditorium hotel, with its big annex, will be crowded to the doors during convention week. In these two the largest crowds will gather, and the streets about them will be packed thick with hoarse, beribboned, red eyed men. Bands will stand beneath their windows serenading state delegations, and clubs of men in long skirted coats with canes in their hands will tramp in and out of their corridors, filling the air with shouts for their candidates. There will be hospitality of a liquid character at the headquarters of the silver states, and music everywhere. And while the crowds rend the air with their shouts below the leaders of the convention will get together in the quiet of their rooms up stairs and map out the business and determine how it will be done.

The Wigwam.

The last convention held in Chicago met in a wigwam erected on the lake shore—a great deal larger than the wigwam in which the Lincoln convention met 36 years ago. The news of that convention was sent to the world by the hand of a single telegraph operator. The convention of eight years ago was held in the Auditorium. Both these were within easy access of the hotels and business places. The Coliseum, in which the convention of 1896 will be held, is more than half an hour's ride from the center of the city and is reached by several lines of street cars. It is a huge building, constructed with a view to just such gatherings as the national conventions. It is 727 feet long by 300 feet wide. The outer walls are 45 feet high and the roof rises in terraces to a height of 105 feet. Twelve steel trusses, each 230 feet wide, support the roof. Exclusive of the vestibule, the interior of the building is 676 feet long.

Twenty-five feet above the main floor of the hall is a balcony. It is 40 feet wide and it runs around the four sides of the building. Forty feet above the main floor is another gallery. The second is 12 feet wide. The whole floor space of the building is 285,000 square feet. It will accommodate 15,000 people during the convention, though the capacity of the building for show purposes can be increased to 50,000 people. The exits are on all sides and the facilities for emptying the hall quickly are ample. The lighting of the hall will be done by 100 arc lights provided with powerful reflectors.

The Democratic national committee will meet in Chicago the week before the convention assembles, and its deliberations will be watched even more closely than those of the Republican national committee at St. Louis. Interest in the contests was keyed up to a high point when Chairman Harrity was quoted in a New York paper as saying that no man who announced in advance that he would bolt the convention under certain conditions should be admitted as a delegate. Mr. Harrity has denied since that he had any idea the gold men would attempt to control the convention by shutting out on contests those who had threatened to bolt in the interest of the free coinage of silver. But the friends of silver have their eyes on the national committee and they will not be satisfied until they know that their friends are to be seated. They, too, have hinted at an advantage to be gained in the recognition of contesting delegations. They are said to be considering the possibility of shutting out the Michigan state delegation on the ground that the delegates and alternates to the state convention did not vote according to their instructions, which in a majority of cases were for the free coinage of silver. This question is not likely to figure seriously before the national committee, and if it is raised at all, it will be in the convention, where ex-Postmaster General Dickinson will have a chance to explain how he elected administration delegates from what was claimed to be an antiadministration state.

The Temporary Chairman.

The national committee, besides deciding the contests of delegations to be placed on the temporary roll of the convention, will choose candidates for temporary officers of the convention, but if the national committee chooses a "gold" man for temporary chairman and the "silver" men are in the majority in the convention, as is now expected, it is quite probable that the choice of the national committee will be ignored, and that the temporary chairman of the convention will be chosen from the list of western or southern delegates. It is not unlikely that the honor of the temporary or permanent chairmanship will be conferred on the senator from Kentucky, Mr. Blackburn, who has routed the administration forces in his state so recently, and who has been indorsed by his state convention as a candidate for the presidency. Vest of Missouri may be one of the officers of the convention if he is not engaged in preparing "Silver Dollar" Bland for nomination. Possibly Missouri's other presidential possibility, Governor Stone, or the man who has routed the administration army in Illinois, Governor Altgeld, will receive honors at the hands of the convention.

Many seats will be vacant, as I have said, because the opening proceedings of a national convention are largely formal, and it is seldom they have any serious bearing on the convention's after work. When the temporary officers have been elected and the committees have been appointed to pass on the credentials and to propose a permanent organization and rules for the convention, a recess will be taken until the next day, and the crowd will straggle back to the big hotels to march again and cheer again and to hold heated discussions on the currency question in the corridors of the hotels.

Familiar Faces.

There will be many familiar faces missing in the corridors and on the floor of the convention. Maryland's sphinx, Senator Gorman, has hesitated. Price, too, had announced his intention of staying away, but he has reconsidered since. Ex-Governor Francis of Missouri, who made a losing fight for the administration in his state, and Maffitt, the national committeeman from that state, will be on hand. Francis is the administration candidate for temporary chairman of the convention. Hill of New York, who, as a modest candidate for the nomination, staid away four years ago, will be on hand to make a fight for "sound money" to the last ditch. Whitney, famous as the "Fool Killer" of the convention of four years ago, has decided to lead in the "sound money" cause. Bourke Cockran, who dropped out of politics through his quarrel with the Tammany leaders, will not be in Chicago. He is in Europe nursing a sprained ankle.

Pugh of Alabama will lead the silver forces from his state; Jones of Arkansas, fresh from a triumphant canvass for reelection, will help to make the platform.

After the permanent chairman has been chosen and the permanent roll of the convention has been made up will come what promises to be the real contest of the convention. And it is very likely to be fought out in one of the committee rooms. "What shall the platform be?" is the most interesting and most important of the questions to be determined by the delegates, and as state delegations are well united in most cases, the temper of the committee on resolutions will be the temper of the convention. It will not be like the convention of four years ago in which the friends of Mr. Cleveland told the committee on what platform he would be willing to run. Nor will the convention likely do what that convention did when it repudiated the tariff plank brought in by the committee and adopted that ringing declaration beginning, "Republican protection is a fraud." If there are any compromises to be made on the platform, they will likely be made in the committee. But the fight for consideration will be carried by the minority, into the convention hall and the secrets of the committee room will leak out there, so that the country will know just how much has been conceded to gold or to silver, as the case may be.

And then the convention will ballot for its candidates. The candidates will fit the platform this year if present conditions are not deceptive. It has happened that the platform was made to fit the candidates.

The Democratic convention of 1892 promises to be one of the most exciting in the history of the party,—even more exciting than that of 1892. It will abound in exciting incidents. The convention of four years ago had only one.

A Mammoth Convention.

On the night of June 23-4, 1892, the Democratic national convention made its nomination for the presidency under conditions which have not been paralleled in the history of national conventions. To understand them thoroughly one must have a clear comprehension of what had preceded the convention, and this is a matter of history so fresh in most American minds that it needs but a brief rehearsal. Grover Cleveland had been president for four years, and had been defeated at the polls for re-election after he had received a unanimous nomination at the St. Louis convention of 1888. David B. Hill of New York, who was lieutenant governor when Cleveland was elected to the presidency first, was a candidate for the presidential nomination. He had been one of the New York delegation to the convention of 1884 when Cleveland received his first nomination, and he had urged Cleveland on the delegates to that convention as the choice of New York, and therefore the strongest candidate the Democracy could put before the country. The promise made by Hill in 1884 had been kept. New York had given Cleveland its electoral vote, and he had been elected—the first Democrat to reach the presidential office since the war. Hill had gained such control of the Democratic party in the state of New York—or at least of that branch of the Democratic party which is in the majority, and therefore recognized as the Democracy of the state—that he knew he could have the indorsement of the delegates to the state convention, and, having that, he expected to go before the convention of 1892, as Cleveland had gone before the convention of 1884, as the candidate of the state of New York. In order to clinch his hold on the convention, however, he had it called at an early date, and because it was called so early his enemies said he was trying to take "snap" judgment, and bitterly opposed the act. Then they made the fact that the convention was called so early an excuse for calling another convention, known as the antisnap convention, which met at Syracuse in the fall of 1891. Thus New York had two full sets of delegates at Chicago—one the delegates of the regular Democracy and the other the delegates of the "antisnappers," as they were known. The 72 delegates of the regular Democracy were instructed to vote as a unit for David B. Hill. The other delegates were instructed to vote for Grover Cleveland.

William C. Whitney.

William C. Whitney of New York, who had been Mr. Cleveland's secretary of the navy, was the manager of Mr. Cleveland's campaign. He was well adapted for the difficult work before him because while in sympathy with the object of the "antisnappers" he was a member of the regular Democracy and of Tammany Hall, its representative in the city of New York. By the advice of Mr. Whitney, the "antisnappers" gave up a contest for the New York seats in the convention—a contest which Mr. Cleveland's personal followers in the convention might have decided in their favor, but which would have been so manifestly unfair that it would have split the Democracy of New York hopelessly.

Before the convention met, the most earnest efforts were made to unite the delegates opposed to Mr. Cleveland on some other candidate. The Hill men were prepared to abandon their candidate—with his own consent—if they could find any one on whom they could unite enough votes to nominate him. At one time the Hill delegates believed they had found a compromise candidate in Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland; and in fact they claimed afterward that they had had Mr. Gorman's consent to the use of his name at one time and that he had withdrawn from the contest suddenly in fear of defeat. Whatever the facts are as to Mr. Gorman, the New York delegation went into the convention hall on the afternoon of June 23 at 5 o'clock knowing that unless they had time to make a combination of some kind before morning they were beaten and Mr. Cleveland would be nominated. Every mention of Cleveland's name was the signal for a tremendous display of enthusiasm. When Mr. Hill was mentioned there were cheers from the partisans of the New York man, but there was silence in the galleries.

David B. Hill.

As midnight approached the nominating speeches were being made. There had been an attempt to adjourn earlier, but it had been shouted down by the galleries and voted down by the delegates. The beginning of the nominating speeches had been greeted with frenzied enthusiasm by the galleries. The people there showed no impatience when the speeches in behalf of Mr. Cleveland were being made. They listened with patience which gave way to enthusiasm whenever the name of their candidate was mentioned. But when Hill's name was placed before the convention the galleries showed themselves impatient of the delay. There were cries of "Vote!" and cheers and hisses and such uproar as made speaking well nigh impossible. Still the Cleveland men stuck steadily to their purpose, and every proposition to adjourn met with a vigorous negative.

The final speech for Mr. Hill—or rather against Mr. Cleveland—was to be made by Congressman Bourke Cockran, one of the ablest men in congress, known as a fine speaker and one who met usually with encouragement from his audiences. But the galleries were in no mood to listen to eloquence. John W. Daniel, senator from Virginia and one of Mr. Hill's partisans, had been howled down in disgraceful confusion, while the placid chairman, Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, beat a mild protest on the desk with his gavel. Mr. Cockran made a futile appeal to the convention to adjourn till the next morning. He was not well. He was hoarse, he said, and the tones of his voice and his whole bearing confirmed what he said. But the physical condition of one man or the comfort of a hundred was nothing to the partisans of Mr. Cleveland when it interfered with their programme. Besides, while Mr. Cockran was evidently unwell, might not his illness be exaggerated? Might not this plea be the last trick played by the opposition? No cry for quarter from any one of Mr. Hill's followers would avail. The fight was to be fought to the death, and that before morning.

It was half past 2 o'clock when Bourke Cockran walked down the aisle and took the platform. His hair was rumpled; his necktie was askew; his whole bearing was that of a sick and dispirited man. But when the cries of "vote" from the galleries began he turned on them so swiftly that those who knew Mr. Cockran saw there were life and energy in him still.

Mr. Cleveland's Nomination.

And so, with the galleries hushed to an unwonted silence, with the sullen beating of the rain echoing through the hall, with the dripping of the water that puddled on the floor, and with now and then an ominous muttering from the thunder that almost drowned the orator's voice, began the last desperate plea of the opponents of Mr. Cleveland. The rain was not more monotonous than the speaker's voice at first, the thunder not more sullen than his tones. But as he warmed up to his subject he brought to his aid every latent resource. His throat cleared, and his voice rang out to the farthest corners of the hall. And the argument to which the impatient galleries were forced to listen that night was such a masterful plea as few who sat there will ever listen to again.

And when this wonderful burst of eloquence was over—this speech which will be renowned in the history of convention oratory—why, then the convention nominated Mr. Cleveland on the first ballot with a total of 617½ votes against 114 for Hill; 103 for Boies of Iowa; 38½ for Gorman, and scattering votes for Stevenson, Morrison, Campbell, Carlisle, Pattison, Russell and Whitney.

And when the work was done and it was moved to make the nomination unanimous, Mr. Cochran arose from the midst of the delegation which had voted solidly for its chief and said, "Mr. Chairman, I want to call the attention of the convention to the fact that upon the motion to make the nomination by acclamation, New York votes aye."

And amid thunders of applause the convention broke up. It was 4 o'clock and the gray dawn was creeping up the horizon when 20,000 tired men filed out of the exits of the convention hall and made their way to hotels and lodging houses under the dripping skies.

FREE SILVER MEN

Plan to Have Supreme Control of Convention.

THEY WILL PROBABLY HAVE A CANDIDATE

Selected That Will Command Wide Support.

Chicago, Ill., June 30.—W. H. Hinrichsen, chairman of the Illinois state committee says that the gold men will not be given quarters at the convention for the silver men are going to control the temporary and permanent organization, present a free silver platform and run things generally. The wishes of the gold men will not be recognized. In this he is backed by the silver leaders and it is now quite probable that before the convention opens the silverites will have settled upon a candidate upon whom they can unite and who will represent the silver sentiment of the country.

THREATENED INDIAN FIGHT.

Pitt River Indians to Celebrate July 4th With a Big Massacre.

Redding, Cal., June 30.—Great excitement has been caused here by the receipt of a letter giving notice of an uprising of the Pitt river Indians, one of the strongest and best organized tribes in Northern California.

The letter was received from W. Bartley, a settler at the big bend of the Pitt river, 60 miles northeast of the town, and it states that a friendly squaw informed him that the tribe will hold a big pow-wow near his farm on July 4, which will conclude with a massacre of all the neighboring settlers and their families.

The sheriff has organized an expedition which is hurrying to the scene of the proposed massacre.

FUNERALS.

FARLEY.—The funeral of Thomas F. Farley took place this morning from his late home on East Merrimack street. The remains were taken to the Immaculate Conception church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Dr. Garrigan officiated, assisted by Rev. H. J. Mulligan, deacon, and Rev. Philip J. Lee, sub-deacon.

The church was crowded with relatives and friends of the deceased. The choir, directed by Prof. Haggerty, rendered Schmidt's requiem mass.

The pall-bearers were Messrs James Farley, Hugh Duggan, John B. Swift, Joseph Dallagher, George Cassidy, and Thomas Maxwell.

After the service at the church, the funeral cortege, which was a very large one, proceeded to the Catholic cemetery, where the interment took place.

DRISCOLL.—The funeral of Timothy Driscoll took place this morning from his home in Graniteville. The remains were taken to St. Catherine's church where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Shaw. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery in this city.

SUPERIOR CRIMINAL COURT

TRIAL OF THE WETHERELL ASSAULT CASE.

Wetherell Acquitted On All the Charges—No Evidence of Assault.

The Superior criminal court resumed its session at East Cambridge, yesterday, with the Lowell case of Jacob Wetherell carnal abuse of Mary Earle, on trial before Judge Richardson.

The defendant, Wetherell, is an engineer at Cheney's box shop, and it will be remembered the girl who is but 14 years old, alleged that she had been approached by Wetherell while gathering wood on different occasions and on one of them she was his willing victim.

Assistant Dist. Att. Sanderson conducted the government's case and N. D. Pratt, Esq., appeared for the defendant.

The Earle girl testified that the defendant took liberties with her finally accomplishing his purpose and giving her money to keep her quiet. Her stepmother testified that the girl told her three different stories explaining how she came by the money finally admitting that Wetherell had given it to her and for what purpose. She admitted that she told the girl a falsehood informing her that Wetherell had told her all about it, before the little one would admit to her that she had been with him. Supt. Davis and Inspector Allen testified to the complaint and arrest.

Dr. Jones who examined the girl at the government's request was the principal witness for the defence. He testified that his examination of the girl failed to substantiate the testimony that an outrage had been committed. There was positively no evidence of such an assault.

Just as Mr. Pratt was beginning his argument for the defence, the government waived the first indictment charging carnal abuse and asked for conviction only on the ground of assault with intent. The jury was out 40 minutes on the case returning a verdict of not guilty on both counts.

It is thought the court will adjourn by Thursday.

RESCUERS AGAIN HINDERED

FALL OF ROCK DROVE THEM BACK AGAIN.

Entombed Men at Wilkesbarre Mine Cannot be Reached for One Month.—They May Live for Ten Days.

Wilkesbarre, Penn., June 30.—The situation at the Twin shaft disaster is unchanged since midnight. The rescuing party started to work hopefully during the night but at 8 o'clock this morning a fall of rock drove them back. It will be necessary to double timber as they go along.

Under the most favorable conditions it will take one month to reach the entombed men.

St. Joe, a Polander, who was the only one of six entombed at Janeville, a few years ago, to be rescued after 19 days imprisonment, states that the victims of the disaster will live 10 days if they can be reached in that time.

Splendid corner estate, No. 188 Moore street at the corner of Agawam street. Promptly at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, I shall sell without limit or reserve to the highest bidder my real estate as above. Sale rain or shine. The house has ten large, well finished, nicely arranged rooms, also bath room, pantry, store room and cellar, all in excellent order and repair. It is very convenient, every room is a pleasant one and has a fine outlook; the house could very easily and at very little expense be made into two tenements; there are five rooms on each floor. The lot has a frontage of 60 feet on Moore street, 94 feet on Agawam street, an area of 5604 square feet, is nicely graded and laid down to lawn; has a 16 inch solid cement or mortar wall all round it, there is room for a cottage on the lot facing Agawam street by taking away a little shed. This estate is certainly a very desirable and attractive one; the house has most all modern conveniences; was built to order by present owner for his own occupancy and is now given up because it is too large. The lot is one of the choicest on the street, first, because it's the corner one; second, because it's the highest one in the street and third because it's in the best shape. Chances like this don't grow, neither are they found in many neighborhoods. House open for inspection after 10 a. m. on day of sale. J. E. Conant & Co. in charge.

From Other Lands to Get a Hearing on the Questions at Issue.

The council of the federation in Ireland and the chairmen of the Irish party, jointly charged with the work of calling an Irish race convention, have issued a call for a convention to meet in Dublin on Sept. 1 "to reconstruct a united home rule party and satisfy the yearning of the Irish race all over the world for a thorough reunion of the political forces of Ireland."

To such a great and hopeful work they invite aid and counsel, and in the exercise of the power delegated by the representatives of the Irish people and in conformity with orders made at a meeting of the trustees and officers of the Irish National Federation of America, held on the 18th of June, they issue the following instructions to the branches of the federation of the United States:

Each branch of the Irish National Federation of America shall be entitled to elect one delegate.

Delegates must be enrolled members or contributors to the support of the Home Rule movement through the branches selecting them as delegates.

Delegates must be elected at a special meeting of the branch called for that purpose, one week's notice of meeting being given.

Credentials must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting at which the delegates are elected; countersigned by the officers of city and state councils, where such exist, duplicate copies to be forwarded to the office of the national secretary, Room 26, Cooper Union, New York city. It is signed by Thomas Addis Emmet, M. D., president; John D. Crimmins, treasurer; Joseph P. Ryan, secretary.

Elected to Masonic Offices.

Arnold S. Welch, 32d degree Mason, and Chas. C. Hutchinson have been elected to first Lieut. commander and Gr. host respectively at the Masonic convention in Boston yesterday.

Knights of Pythias Officers.

Samuel E. Hines lodge, Knights of Pythias, last night elected officers as follows: C. C., Samuel Scott; V. C., Geo. Jeffroy; Prel., R. Read; K. R. S., A. F. Choate; M. F., F. B. Andrews; M. E., John H. Tighe.

Reform Club Election.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Lowell Reform club was held last evening, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, John Hogan; vice president, Thomas O'Loughlin; financial secretary, P. J. Ryan; treasurer, R. J. Fullerton; janitor, John Kenney.

CRISP GOSSIP.

The Bijou club is considering the advisability of holding a jollification meeting in honor of Mike Connolly, one of its members, who got a bite while fishing at Willow Dale yesterday. Had he landed the fish the meeting surely would have been held.

Joe Bickford, the poet, is about to take up his eloquent pen after a silence of several weeks and write an epic in honor of July 4. Joseph has been non-lucratively employed recently and hence the musings of the spirit were unheeded.

Had the census enumerators or the Hogan's alley artist the good fortune to be at the corner of Broadway and Suffolk streets at 7.40 last evening when Officer McCann arrested a man from the North common, they or he would have found a great "graft" for inside of a few minutes there were thousands of children young, old, rich, poor, clean, filthy, etc., etc., in the same and among them I saw at least 50 prototypes of the famous "yellow kid" of Hogan's alley. Where they came from and how they got there was a mystery.

BASE BALL.

The league is now a permanent feature and promises to grow in popularity day by day. The attendance at last Saturday's Union-South End game showed that there is interest taken in clubs other than the Emeralds and Unions, while the results show that there are more than two strong teams in the league. Those who formerly placed the Emeralds, Unions, T. R. and Ts and South Ends as the four strong teams of the league must now admit that the Florence team is in the game, for with the men it played there is no reason why it shouldn't give any of the four a battle. The players are permanent, according to Manager Day, and it will not be surprising to see the Florence club land near the top.

A word about the Unions, heretofore invincible, now an ordinary team. Manager Dunnigan needs more than one pitcher in his coterie. This has been proven in the past three games. Joe Quigley is a clever pitcher, a good player and a gentlemanly young man, but unfortunately is easily rattled, and when once rattled cannot pitch.

When playing his best game there are few, if any better, than Joe, yet in the course of a game he is liable to be knocked out of the box, as has been proven in two of the recent games. Manager Dunnigan should have another pitcher to relieve Quigley, a pitcher other than Fratus, for Tony is foolish to pitch, as every good judge of ball playing will admit. Tony is one of the most valuable men in the Unions and as a fielder has no superior. He shouldn't take a chance of losing his arm by pitching.

Speaking of the Unions, I met Dr. O'Connor of North Chelmsford in town a few days ago looking as healthy as ever. "Babe" (just for old time's sake) was a corking ball player and when a young fellow could play in any position with the best of them. Another North Chelmsford crack ball player who is now out of harness is Jimmy Conners who received his early training at the trotting park. Jimmy has abandoned ball playing for the wheel and has quite a reputation as a long distance rider.

The Emerald-Union game, the famous play off which is scheduled to come off at the Cricket grounds next Saturday, on the afternoon of the glorious Fourth, will be a game in keeping with the day for it will be red hot. The two Murphys, Dannie and Dennie, will play with the Emeralds and they are a tower of strength to the team. The remainder of the Emerald team will be almost the same as before while the Unions in all probability will play the same team as they did on that remarkable day on the Fair grounds.

The Pendergast Pets better known as the Tivoli Terrors an aggregation of ball players which no league could hold are in the game with blood in their eyes and money in their pockets. They have heard much of the Quincy Quakers and the Hub Harrassers, otherwise called the Boyle Blusterers and Kinsella Killers and they want to get on a game with either or both of these teams at any time or place, for any thing or amount with or without gloves to a finish and they want to meet them quickly. Their team is as follows: Killem Courtney c, Well Read p, Skinney Johnson 1b, Parker McDonough 2b, Percival Roche 3b, Diamond McDonald ss, One Furlong lf, Two Furlongs, rf, Ed. Welch cf, Rodalie Blake mascot, Bill Quick sub, and two foul flags not yet elected. Address all challenges to Maurice Johnson, Tivoli, Merrimack square, and enclose a stamp and anything else you want.

MARRIED EIGHT YEARS

WITHOUT KNOWING IT, HAS BEEN THOS. J MEADE.

Lawyer Gullet Says He Performed the Ceremony Legally and Recorded It.

Thomas J. Meade of New Britain, Conn., will be a much surprised man when he learns that he has been married for nearly eight years without knowing it, yet such is the case and it came about in this way:

City Clerk Dadman recently received a letter inquiring if there was a record of the marriage in 1887 or '88 in Lowell of Thomas J. Meade and Maggie or Margaret Mack or McNamara.

The letter was from a New Britain Conn., lawyer and an examination showed that people of that name were married July 6, 1888, by J. H. Goiller, justice of the peace.

The information was forwarded and a few days later the following undersigned letter was received:

"New Britain, Conn.

To City Clerk of Lowell:

Dear Sir—Will you go and see the justice of the peace that performed the marriage of Thomas Meade to Maggie Mack and ask if it was legal or not? As I remember when I and she went to him and asked him how much he was going to charge and he made me an answer. I told him I had no money so he took the license away and that was the last I had to do with it. He never performed the marriage on me legally, and this will be proved and make a clear case of it."

A letter was received Monday from other New Britain residents, and the information sent will convince Mr. Meade, if he sees it, that he has been legally married for eight years.

Mr. Goillet says his records show that he was paid for officiating at the marriage and that he recorded it at city hall. He says that he may have told the bridegroom he intended to record the marriage certificate at city hall and thus was not able to give it to him.

CHOIR BOYS

Of St. John's Church the Beneficiaries of a Successful Concert.

The concert given at St. John's Episcopal church last night in order that the choir boys may have a two weeks' vacation at South Wellfleet, drew a fair sized audience. The feature of the entertainment was the presentation of "Diamond Cut Diamond," by Mr. F. O. Blunt and Miss Minnie Clifford. Besides this the choir boys sang the Ave Maria, with Miss Alice Hutchins as soloist and Mr. Charles Paige, Harry Hopkins, Thomas Poole, Harry Gilmore, Miss Hutchins and Miss Harriet Greene gave a variety of musical selections.

Mr. Blunt had charge of arrangements, and he had the assistance of George Walker, Isaac Romaine, Fred Clements, Albert Whitworth and Warren Hill.

YOUNGSTERS HURT.

Little Girl Badly Bitten by a Newfoundland Dog.

A young lad aged about 13 named Milliron was injured while working or playing on the new Moody street bridge yesterday, falling from a staging. He was carried home by a bystander and is as comfortable as could be expected.

Little Georgiana Tolson of Aiken street was badly bitten about the thighs by a Newfoundland dog yesterday belonging to parties unknown.

SPINDLE CITY WHEELMEN

Banqueted at the St. Charles Hotel, Last Evening.

The Spindle City wheelmen dined at the St. Charles last night. The riders were out in force, and had a rattling good time. The president of the occasion was Wallace E. Ferris; Frank Harris was toastmaster, and there were many spenkers.

Irish National Alliance.

A new council of the Irish National Alliance was formed last evening with 125 members. It will be known as the Emmet council. Officers were elected as follows: President, Maurice L. Hannafin; vice president, Patrick J. Fitzgerald; treasurer, Andrew F. Roach; secretaries, Michael A. Ryan, John J. Fahey.

The members intend to make the council one of the most flourishing in the state. The regular meeting night will be Tuesday.

Baptist Lawn Party.

There was a reception and lawn party held on the grounds of the Baptist parsonage in Chelmsford yesterday afternoon and evening, the affair being a benefit to Rev. H. A. Cornell. The grounds were prettily decorated and illuminated with Japanese lanterns.

Typhoid in Haverhill.

A BIG LABOR RIOT

By Strikers at Cleveland and Police.

MANY HEADS SMASHED IN THE MELEE.

The Police Fought Fiercely —How It Began.

Cleveland, July 1.—For nearly a month the strike at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying company has continued, with frequent, though individual attacks by strikers upon workmen who had taken their places. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 170 employes of the Brown company were marched from the works, under the escort of 80 policemen, to the car tracks on St. Clair street. A crowd of 2000 men, women and boys had gathered, and began hooting and hissing. Two motor-cars came along, and were signalled to stop, but the strikers yelled, "Go ahead, don't stop!" and the motormen increased their speed and whizzed by. The police then marched the men in their charge a block further away to a corner and halted for another car, and the crowd followed. Some one in the crowd threw a big stone, which struck Patrolman Keidel, and cut his head open.

Deputy Chief of Police McMahon then gave a prearranged signal, and the crowd was given a terrible lesson. Forty policemen swung out into line, and the other 40 closed in around the men they were protecting. The first 40, under command of Captain English and Lieutenant Dunn, charged the crowd with riot clubs, and they hit so break heads. Two rushes up the street sent the crowd in that direction flying, and left a dozen men lying on the pavement with bleeding heads. Then the police charged twice in the opposite direction, and then down a side street, using their clubs vigorously. They scattered the crowd effectually, and arrested four of the ringleaders after splitting the scalp of one of them. In the meantime, the police guarding the workmen stopped a car almost by force, and sent their charges away. No one was dangerously hurt by the clubbing, so far as can be ascertained, but there are scores of broken heads. Further trouble is feared.

No Pardon For Pension Sharks.

Washington, July 1.—The president has always shown a disposition to deal severely with persons who defraud pensioners, and otherwise violate the pension laws, and this tendency is well exhibited in his action upon three applications for pardons in such cases. These were the cases of Andrew J. Rooks of Georgia, Pal A. Marcellino of New Mexico and Stephen O. W. Brandon of Tennessee, all convicted of offenses against the pension laws. The president denied the application in each case, and his endorsement plainly indicates the repugnance he feels for this class of offenses.

Another Indictment Pending.

Boston, July 1.—The four Syrians who were arrested at Oxford, near Worcester, on the charge of counterfeiting, were yesterday declared not guilty by the United States district court jury. The defendants were not released, however, as there is another indictment pending against them on the charge of having in their possession dies for counterfeiting.

Banquet, Reception and Dance.

Concord, N. H., July 1.—Seven hundred legislators and ex-legislators of New Hampshire enjoyed a banquet in the Opera House yesterday. A reception was held at the state house last evening. A ball at White's Opera House ended the festivities of the first day of New Hampshire's first legislative reunion.

Pardons Refused.

Washington, July 1.—The president has denied applications for pardon in the cases of Meredith O. Sullivan, sentenced in Pennsylvania to one year's imprisonment for embezzling money from letters, and Daniel E. Tilton, sentenced in New Jersey to one year's imprisonment for a like offense.

PLEADING FOR M'KANE.

Friends of Political Crook Think He Has Been Sufficiently Punished.

Albany, July 1.—Rev. David W. Couch, Rev. Mr. Paulson, Victor E. Bedingfield and Mr. Treadwell, headed a delegation of citizens of New York and Brooklyn, which called on Governor Morton yesterday and urged executive clemency in behalf of John Y. McKane, the former Gravesend boss. A personal letter from McKane to the governor was presented by the delegation.

JOHN Y. M'KANE.

It was urged that McKane had fully atoned for his crime, and that outraged justice had been satisfied. It was stated that the unfortunate man's health was in very bad condition, and that if he was compelled to serve his full sentence he would leave the prison a total physical wreck, and would be a burden to his family instead of a help. The delegation admitted that McKane had been justly condemned, but urged that in view of the many peculiar circumstances connected with his case, he should be pardoned. Governor Morton said that he would carefully consider the merits of the case, and would make known his decision in the near future.

To Overhaul Tax Laws.

Boston, July 1.—In accordance with a recommendation made by the late Governor Greenhalge, in his last inaugural address, and in accordance with a provision passed by the last legislature, Lieutenant Governor Wolcott yesterday appointed John Lowell, Alva Barrus, A. A. Carleton, T. J. Coolidge and F. W. Taussig to be a commission to investigate and reform, if possible, the taxation laws of the commonwealth.

Yale Asked to Pay Taxes.

New Haven, July 1.—On application of the board of assessors, Town Counsel Goodhart yesterday gave an opinion that all property owned by Yale college, located outside of the college campus and not devoted to college purposes, is subject to taxation. The assessors will include this property in the new list, and an effort will be made to collect the tax. The college will contest.

Bet Two on Paster's Side.

Boston, July 1.—A meeting of the Park Street church corporation was held last night, and those favorable to the retention of the pastor, Rev. I. J. Lansing, D. D., were again defeated. It was decided, by a vote of 13 to 2, to appoint a committee of three to act as part of a joint committee, which will request Dr. Lansing to appear before a council, to show cause why he should not give way to a successor. The meeting was very spirited at times, but Dr. Lansing's friends were unable to do much to aid his cause.

Investigation Ordered.

Boston, July 1.—The accident at the boat landing in Marine park, which resulted in the drowning of four children, and injuries to several others, is to be officially investigated. The mayor has already forwarded to the park commissioners a request for full information relative to the construction and control of the float, landing and approaches thereto.

MURDEROUS THIEF

Shot a Lady in the Face and Then Made His Escape.

Providence, July 1.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of 262 River avenue, was yesterday shot and seriously wounded by an unknown burglar. Mrs. Taylor states that she was asleep in her chamber shortly after noon when she was awakened by the sound of a man rummaging in her bureau. Mrs. Taylor screamed for help, and the man shot her in the face, just below the right nostril. The burglar fled immediately after the shooting. After a period of unconsciousness, Mrs. Taylor rallied, and it is thought she will recover.

Racers Took a Tumble.

Galesburg, Ills., July 1.—The national circuit bicycle meet yesterday was witnessed by 3000 people. The real contest was between Tom Cooper and W. C. Sanger, and the struggle between them was of a desperate nature. In the half mile professional Cooper led, and set the pace, but Sanger overtook him, and for the last 10 rods the two went on a dead heat, and the judges so decided it. In the one mile professional, Cooper again gained a slight lead, and kept the advantage. Within five rods of the wire, Sanger was thrown violently to the ground, the handles of his bicycle coming off, and the next instant all those behind him went down. Seven men were in a heap. It will be several days before the men injured can race again.

WHAT IT IS

What is it? A Sure Cure. That's What.

A year of it.
A year of what?
Pain and misery combined—misery mostly.
Each month worse than the one before.
Not always as bad one day as another.
But that OTHER always made up.
Terribly discouraged many times.
Wondered what would come of it all.
Pains in my back simply terrible.
Kidneys sore as a boil.
Worse in the morning after a night's REST.
REST—I didn't know what it was.
So stiff and lame mornings could hardly get up.
And the pain was there.
And it stayed there.
That is kidney disease.
That is what it IS.
Now the other side.
What is it? A sure cure.
It is just that for everybody.
What is it called?
Doan's Kidney Pills.
Will they cure some one else, but not me?
They will cure you, and them and everybody.
Who says so—the maker of the Pills?
Yes—but your neighbors say so, too.
Needn't go to 'Frisco to those cured there.
Perhaps only around the corner.
Mrs. Mary Gard of No. 4 Noble's Court is the subject of all the above and you can call on her. She suffered a great deal and can tell you of Doan's Kidney Pills—they cured her.

SECOND EDITION

IS DULY INCORPORATED FROM FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.

The Latter as a Church is no Longer Exists—The Lessees Make the Next Move.

The First Trinitarian Congregational church is now an incorporated body. The recently applied for act of incorporation was granted Monday.

There were no special privileges mentioned in the act, but all the right, title and privileges heretofore vested in the church as it existed is now in the corporate body.

No immediate action in the way of removal from the old place will be made.

It is reported that the anti-Kennigottians will meet tomorrow night and discuss another act of incorporation.

At last prayer meeting, it is said, there was a little breeze as follows:

Deacon O. A. Brigham stepped to the platform to preside when he found there the Rev. Dr. Dick, who has been preaching for the lessees. Ex-Deacon Merrill stated that Mr. Dick had been asked to preside.

Deacon Brigham asked if it were not a regular church meeting.

Deacon Merrill replied in the affirmative, but said, "We thought as you folks had got out, we would get some one to preside," or words to that effect.

Deacon Brigham replied that "the folks" had not got out yet. When they did they would give due notice. He then presided at the meeting, and at the close invited Rev. Mr. Kennggott to pronounce the benediction.

MATRIMONIAL.

Miss Nellie Callahan was married yesterday afternoon to Mr. Richard Helliwell, the popular member of the Reform club. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Ronan in St. Peter's church. Miss Rachel Stowell was the bridesmaid, and Thomas P. Carty the best man. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Helliwell will reside at their home in Lawrence street.

Wilson—Chalmers.

Mr. James Wilson and Miss Margaret W. Chalmers were married last evening at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Deborah Chalmers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George C. Wright in the presence of the family and intimate friends. Mr. Moses MacKelvey gave the bride away. She was beautifully attired in white lansdowne with roses and was attended by Miss Elizabeth MacKelvey. Mr. Chalmers was best man. The happy couple afterward held a reception at Caledonian hall and left the city on a late train. They were the recipients of many presents.

Red Men Officers' Elected.

Passaconaway tribe of Red Men elected the following officers last night:

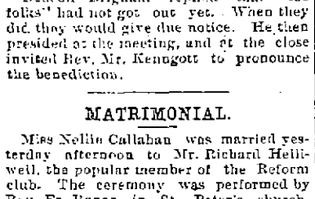

W. B. Peters, prophet; C. H. Kittredge, sachem; Charles E. Smith, senior sagamore; Leonard F. Steele, junior sagamore; Edward P. Goward, keeper of wampum; Charles N. Leach, trustee for 1 year; L. H. Stores Will be Closed and Everybody Will Celebrate.

The excitement of the approaching celebration has already set in and yesterday gave some evidence that with the inevitable small boy the preliminaries of the celebration were in progress.

It was only a fire cracker that exploded but it set a house on fire and threatened the destruction of a dwelling. Was the small boy amazed? Not at all. He rather likes that kind of excitement and from now until about the sixth of July the fire department will have to make many hasty responses to alarms caused by the small boy and his explosives.

It is expected of course that the usual number of boys will get their faces scorched by powder, their fingers blown off by cartridges which hang fire and that one or two will get shot by "the didn't know it was loaded fiend."

All these incidental evils have come to be accepted as the inevitable accompaniments of a good celebration.

There will be other mishaps of course. Some of the bloomer girls on wheels will have their undergoar scorched; but it will be so nice to give their escorts an opportunity to make a heroic rescue.

The expectations of the people will be fully realized in the coming celebration. The public at large is confident that the observance in all its features will be one of the greatest ever held in this city.

The parade promises to surpass anything of the kind ever held here while the fireworks, the sports, and the entertainments will be unique.

The money will not this year be wasted on a balloon ascension with which the people are all familiar. The Lowell residents have seen such ascensions and parachute jumps at Lakeview and Glen Forest and they would not now appreciate them as features.

Manchester, N. H., will this year have a monopoly of balloon ascensions and it is welcome to them. Lowell will have something better by far in its list of sports, its magnificent parades, band concerts and fireworks.

All the stores of any account will be closed. The local barbers, led by Young, Bell, Paradis, Lynch and Tenny, have agreed to close and they hope that all the others will fall in line and close also.

They will be open till after midnight on the "night afore," and will give everybody a good chance to get a clean shave either late at night or early in the morning.

The fact that the following day is Sunday makes it more difficult to close; but those who are accustomed to daily shaves in barber shops can try their hand at shaving themselves for one day if the cannot bear one day's growth of hair. Anybody who wants to get rid of whiskers will have ample opportunity of so doing by knocking around the streets where fire crackers are thickest on the "night before the Fourth." And this method, while being quicker than the ordinary, will have the additional advantage of singeing and removing the "Faskers" at the same time, and all free of charge.

Mr. Glidden of the Sun Building decided a week ago to close regardless of any who may keep open. He says it is none of his business what other barbers wish to do. He wishes to celebrate, and is willing to go it alone.

The clothing stores will be closed, as will the dry goods stores and the wet goods as well.

There will be a general cessation of business along the streets, with the exception of restaurants, fruit dealers, soda fountains and the dispensers of the pure red lemonade, 5 a glass.

The street railway will make a harvest on that day as it is expected that not less than 50,000 people will be transported from the surrounding towns and cities. Visitors need not be afraid to bring their pocketbooks with them although it is expected that fakirs and pickpockets will be here in considerable numbers, but the Lowell police will be on the alert and the crooks will be well watched.

The Fourth of July committee met last evening and appointed F. J. Simonds, D. H. Varnum and Rodney Hemenway judges for the Fourth of July parade.

Ex-Mayor Palmer and Col. Bennett declined to act as judges.

Patrick J. Lynch, Dr. W. H. Downs and George H. Stevens were chosen judges of the bicycle parade.

The route of parade was changed, so that instead of countermarching on Bridge street, the parade will go around through Reed street.

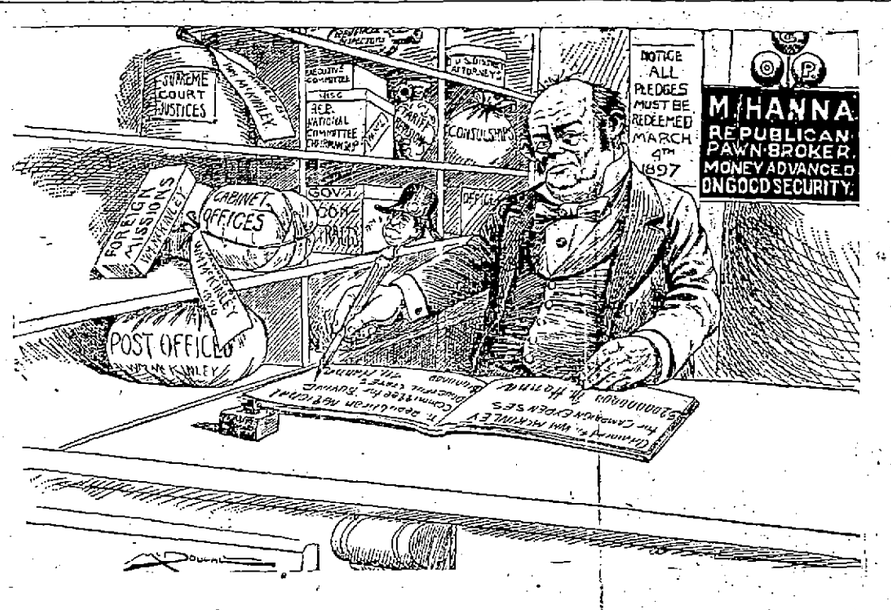

It was stated that Borjes' band will give concerts on Fort Hill park July 4.

In the Fourth of July parade there will be a bicycle battalion of police in charge of Sergt. Palmer.

The Grand Stands Going Up.

Workmen started today the work of constructing the two grand stands in front of city hall. The small one will be used exclusively by members of the city government while reviewing the Fourth of July parade, and the larger one will be open to those who are fortunate enough to secure tickets.

Ordered by the County Commission in Cambridge Yesterday—The Mayor and City Solicitor Present.

The boulevard extension was thoroughly discussed yesterday, when Mayor Courtney and City Solicitor Qua, in response to a summons, appeared before the County commissioners in Cambridge to show reason why the Pawtucket boulevard should not be extended to the city line.

The statutes say that if a city or town does not comply with the decree of the County commissioners to build a road, the commission may order the work to be done and include the expense of so doing in the county tax of the city or town.

The city of Lowell did not comply with the request, and so a petition signed was presented to the commissioners asking them to do the work and charge the same to the city.

It was on this petition the hearing was held. Sheriff Cushing appeared in favor of the petition.

Mayor Courtney and City Solicitor Qua argued that the movement is in the interest of the Country club. They claimed the city has spent a large amount of money on the boulevard and cannot afford to put any more into its extension.

Furthermore, the commissioners had voted to pay $9000 of the county tax to Tyngsboro to aid that town in building its share of the road to the northerly end of the Tyngsboro bridge. This amount is nearly sufficient to pay the town's whole expense on the road; so that, as Lowell pays one sixth of the county tax, she would not only have to pay for her own road but would actually have to pay a sixth share of Tyngsboro's road. This, it was argued, is manifestly unfair and if the city of Lowell should have to construct the new road as decreed, the Lowell representatives thought the county should help bear the cost.

It was announced that if the city will extend the boulevard the state highway commissioners will bear the expense of caring for it.

THE INDEPENDENTS WON.

Exciting Election at the Mathews Last Night.

The Mathews, last night, voted to decorate their hall with flags and bunting on July Fourth. It was also decided to hold a ball in Huntington hall October 2.

The election of officers was very heated and exciting and resulted in the success of the independent ticket. The officers are as follows: President, John Burns; vice president, John J. Gallagher; treasurer, Daniel J. Desmond; financial secretary, P. F. Nestor; recording secretary, John J. Finder; spiritual director, Rev. Fr. McManus; literary committee, Henry Doran, William Smith, Thomas Garvey; board of examiners, James Clark, Thomas Moyland, Patrick Riley; trustees, Patrick Costello, John Lynch, William Welch.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember

BRISK FIRE

Caused by a Fire Cracker on Chapel Street.

The "Fourth of July" fires started in yesterday when a firecracker caused a blaze in the house at 110 Chapel street owned by Owen Cahill and occupied by Arthur O'Neil. The alarm from box 16 was sounded at 4.51 and when the department arrived the fire had worked its way up to the roof. It was extinguished after doing $100 damage.

There was a slight blaze in Otis Allen & Sons' box shop yesterday afternoon. It was extinguished by the engineer, James Merchant.

DEATHS.

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

There were four drunks. Three were fined $1 and the fourth $3.

Ellen Hessian, who was in a few days ago and afterwards discharged on a complaint of polygamy, was in again today for assaulting her sister-in-law, Margaret Platt, who had her arrested. Both showed black eyes and badly scratched countenances, and for appearances it must have been an even thing. The Platt woman said that the Hessian woman went to her house in search of satisfaction. She got it with a damaged face thrown in as a side issue.

A little girl said that the Hessian woman wanted 10 cents to buy beer and not getting it started a fight. The Hession woman insisted that the Platt woman delivered the first blow. She says she went there for a black satin waist belonging to her and that the Platt woman refused to give it to her. Of course the Platt woman said that it was no such "thing." The defendant was fined $10.

Ellen Lynch was accused of stealing Officer Dennett's helmet, and she pleaded guilty, but afterwards said she knew nothing about the bonnet. The officer testified that while he was arresting Cornelius O'Hearn last Saturday from Mrs. Lynch's house the latter ordered him out, saying that he had no right in there without a warrant. The officer claimed also that the woman took the helmet and refused to give it up until she had seen her lawyer.

Mrs. Lynch claimed that she had no intention of stealing the helmet, and she didn't know where it was at present, and neither does officer Dennett. She was fined $10, and her council, Peter A. Fay, appealed.

Then followed a few words between the court and Lawyer Fay.

Talk of the Past in Annual Convention.

OVATION TO WADE HAMPTON, WHO'S NOT SORRY.

For Having Fought With the Confederacy.

Richmond, July 1.—The sixth annual convention of the Confederate veterans met yesterday in the vast and gaily decorated auditorium erected for the purpose at the exposition grounds in this city. Intermingled with the Confederate colors and battleflags are the northern flags, and just above the presiding officer's seat are two large spangled banners. Around the galleries are the coats-of-arms of all the late Confederate states. The auditorium, which can seat over 10,000 people, was comfortably filled, and presented a handsome appearance, when the arrival of General Gordon, commander-in-chief of the Confederate veterans, was greeted by cheers and the band played "Dixie." He was presented with a gavel made from a tree cut in the battlefield of Chickamauga. He then opened the convention by introducing Chaplain Jones of the Confederate veterans, who made a prayer.

GENERAL J. B. GORDON.

At the conclusion of the prayer, General Gordon introduced Governor O'Ferrall, who was on the program to welcome the veterans to Richmond, but that gentleman had barely started when a cheer broke forth from the far end of the auditorium, and General Wade Hampton was seen limping up toward the stand. His progress through the audience was greeted by the wildest cheers; and when at last he reached the stand, General Gordon announced him as the "brave commander-in-chief of the Confederate cavalry," which called forth another round of cheers and rebel yells."

Order being restored, Governor O'Ferrall was reintroduced, and welcomed the veterans to Virginia. The governor's speech was an eloquent tribute to the bravery and fortitude of the Confederate soldiers. He asked: "Am I not voicing your sentiments, comrades?" and was answered by cheers. Governor O'Ferrall was followed by Mayor Taylor, who, as the head of the municipal government, welcomed the veterans once more to the historic city of Richmond.

At the conclusion of the mayor's address General Peyton Wise, chairman of the local reunion committee, formally turned over the hall to the convention, and then the regular proceedings began.

Several times during the day there had been calls for a speech from General Hampton. When General Wise took his seat the calls were renewed, and the South Carolinan walked to the front of the stage. The band struck up "Dixie," while the whole audience arose and applauded. A veteran then passed to the front, bearing an old battleflag that had been shot through in many places, and waved it before the vast assemblage.

When General Hampton was permitted to speak, some one cried "Louder!" "I used to be able to speak loud enough to make you charge," replied General Hampton. Words, he said, could not express his gratitude for the great honor which had been done him. He had come to mingle with the veterans perhaps for the last time, and do honor to the memory of that great man, President Davis. The general said that he would still be fighting if the Confederate flag were waving. He had no apology to make for his course. When his state called upon him, he went into war as a private, and served his country as best he could. The speaker paid a beautiful tribute to the private soldiers, and, in conclusion, said the only epitaph he wanted written on his tombstone was that he was a Confederate soldier.

General Gordon responded to the address of welcome, and received the building on behalf of the veterans. The general paid a glowing tribute to Virginia and Virginians, which was greeted with prolonged cheering.

After the announcement of the committee on credentials, General Stephen D. Lee was introduced, to present the report of the committee on history. It was a lengthy paper, and dealt with the whole subject of histories. The report recommended the establishment of a chair of American history in southern colleges and universities, and the more thorough teaching of history in the schools, public and private, throughout the south. The report concluded with an eloquent tribute to the Confederate soldiers and the southern women. After the appointment of certain committees the convention adjourned until today.

A reception was given in honor of Mrs. Jeff Davis and her daughter, Mrs. Hays, in the Confederate Museum last night, by the regents of that institution. The museum is the building formerly the White House of the Confederacy. When the hour fixed for Mrs. Davis and her daughter to arrive came, there was a solid mass of humanity in the streets about the house. So great was the crowd that all could not enter the house, and the two ladies bowed their acknowledgments from the windows. This satisfied many, who then withdrew, and later a number had an opportunity to meet Mrs. Davis and her daughter. Mrs. Davis stood in the rooms where in war times she held many receptions.

THE SUN EXTRA 5 O'CLOCK

A FAMOUS WRITER

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe Passes Away

GIFTED AUTHORESS OF UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

At the Ripe Old Age of Eighty-Five.

Hartford, Conn., July 1.—Harriet Beecher Stowe, the well known authoress, died here at noon today.

Harriet Beecher Stowe was one of the six children of the late Lyman Beecher Stowe, who attained eminence in the world of letters. She was born in Litchfield, Conn, June 14, 1811. Her mother died when she was but five years of age, and she lived with her aunt until her father married again. She dearly loved her new home, and said that her stepmother was like a mother to her, so kind and loving.

In 1832 her father was made president of the Lane seminary, and she was with him for a great part of the time. He held the position for 20 years.

In 1836 she married Calvin Elias Stowe, afterward prominent as a writer. In 1837 there appeared in the National Era, an anti-slavery sheet, the first number of a serial story from her pen. At first her works had not been given any attention, but later they were permanently noticed, politicians reading them with great interest. In 1852 the last number of the story was printed. On the 20th of the previous month, March, the story was issued in book form. It was entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the most popular American publication ever written, known by every child for the past two generations and translated into several languages.

This work was received with the plaudits of the literary world and the name of Harriet Beecher Stowe became known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Afterward she went to Europe and in 1854 published notes of sunny memories in Europe.

In 1856 she published "Dred," a tale of the dismal swamp, handling the question of slavery from a different standpoint than that in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

In 1859 the Ministers Wooing appeared. The Pearl of Orls Island was published in 1862. Agnes of Sorrento was put in print in 1863. Old Timefolks was out in 1869 and a number appeared in 1870 and later. Pink and White Tyranny being one of the latter works.

She led an excluded life and did not wholly recover from the shock of paralysis received last Friday. She was conscious periodiocally for a short time and passed away peacefully, the members of her family weeping by the bedside.

Burglars in Fall River.

Fall River, July 1.—Burglars entered the Enterprise Brewery last night by calling the night watchman, Roger Taylor, to the gate and binding and gagging him. They then attempted to blow the safe with dynamite. The first charge was unsuccessful and in the meantime Taylor had succeeded in freeing himself sufficiently to shout for help, frightening away the burglars before they got anything of value.

Broke the Record.

Fall River, July 1.—John H. Witts of this city, who broke the world's record for a trip across the continent on a bicycle, arrived in town last night and was greeted by an immense crowd.

The Crescent Cycle club, of which Witts is captain, rode to Providence to meet him, and on the trip to this city he was joined by 300 other cyclists, who escorted him to the store of Callahan, Daly & Co., from which place he started on Sept. 27 last. Witts wore the uniform he used on his trip and tied an American flag around his neck. He was banqueted.

FARLEY AGAIN

Elected President of the Burkes Over Jas. Dacey.

The Burkes elected the following officers last evening:

President, John P. Farley; vice president, T. Frank Clark; clerk, Richard Taylor; financial secretary, John Cox; treasurer, Frank O'Neill; trustees, John Wynne, Thomas Keegan, Wm. McCarthy, Frank Clark and Frank O'Neill; library committee, Austin Rail, Hugh Gallagher and Edward Haley; board of examiners, John Coughlin, Edward O'Brien and Patrick Regan; building director for 18 months, Frank O'Neill; spiritual director, Rev. Fr. Joyce.

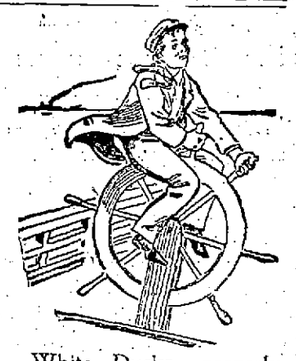

POLICE NOTES.

A man named Joseph Muler applied for lodging at the police station, last night, and he had not been in more than 10 minutes when he developed the "Willies" and imagined that he was on trial for murder. He shouted, pleaded and prayed that he might not be convicted, and it took Keeper McLaughlin some time to convince him that there was nothing against him.

Lakeview Theatre.

The program at the Lakeview theatre this week includes "The Sidmans," who are highly entertaining in a "Bit of Real Life;" Canfield & Carleton in a laughable operatic sketch; Alice Hodgdon, the lady whistler; Joe and Martin Flaherty in an exhibition of "How to train for a fight," including a three round bout. The program opens with a grand production of stereopticon views, which on the whole makes a highly pleasing entertainment.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

At Fall River in Murder and Suicide.

JOHN CONNELLY CUT HIS SON'S THROAT

And Then His Own, Both Dying Instantly.

Fall River, Mass., July 1.—John Connolly, a mule spinner, aged 38, cut the throat of James, his 23-month-old son, and then cut his own throat, at his tenement on Orange street last night. A razor was used in both instances, and the neck was severed to the spinal column. Death was instantaneous in both cases. Connolly had been out of work for some time, and up till Sunday had been drinking hard. Then he took the pledge, and became very moody.

Mrs. Connolly had gone out on an errand at the request of her husband, taking with her the youngest child.

When she returned she found the dead bodies of elder child and husband on the floor.

The neighborhood was soon aroused, and the police and medical attendance were soon on hand. Connelly is believed to have been either insane or in delirium after a fit of drunkenness.

He is a brother of Thomas F. Connolly, the well known and highly respected labor leader of this city.

THE POLICE BOARD

The democrats cannot afford to bolt at Chicago. Let the majority rule even if it silver.

The Concord Monitor truly says:

"Nasty is not a pretty word, but it about the only one that applies to the New York World these days."

Apropos of the rumor of mills closing, the Salem News cries out, "I told you so." Of course nothing bad can happen which the calamity papers have not predicted.

Rev. Mr. Pitts of Lawrence criticizes Debs' discourse at that city. There was more religion in Debs' talk than in some sermons delivered by the reverend gentleman.

The Boston clergyman who preached on the bicycle Sunday should have given an exhibition in fancy riding after the service. That is the course usually followed by experts.

A certain scientific society sends out a circular trying to prove that hydrophobia is but a fancied disease. We surmise that the author of the circular does not speak from experience.

Nota Bene—Let all bicyclists give the sidewalks of Andover a wide birth. There is but one sidewalk in the town and the people may be excused for excluding bicyclists from using it.

The proposition of the Arkwright club to close the mills by common consent has been rejected by the mills of Lowell. The Arkwright club is setting out thus early to scare the people into supporting McKinley.

The trustees of the Textile school being largely Boston men, are not expected to give the interests of Lowell first consideration. In a short time these mill men will use the Textile school for their own benefit just as they use the mills regardless of the city's interests.

The horse deal is over and the public is convinced as to the nature of the transaction despite the efforts of Hunton's confreres to shield him from blame. The question now is what will be the result? Will Clapp be paid? Will Hunton be indicted? The matter will remain as it is until the committee makes its report.

The Lawrence Tribune admires Debs. It says:

"Eugene V. Debs made a lasting and favorable impression on the citizens of Lawrence. The pessimists who anticipated seeing a wild-eyed, dynamite and bomb-throwing advocate, were sorely disappointed when they met the mild-mannered, pleasant, but earnest and determined leader of organized labor in this country."

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

The Boston Herald, that has been shrieking for a gold standard, gets its wish in the republican platform. But the Herald is practically a free trade organ, and with the gold standard it gets the extreme of protection.

What will it do? Support the republican platform or part of that and part of the platform to be framed at Chicago? Verily it appears that no party can frame a platform to suit a mugwump. A good many other papers will be confronted with a like dilemma after the Chicago convention.

REVOLT AGAINST THE REUBENS.

The Haverhill Gazette denounces the type of legislator who is willing to sacrifice every other consideration in order to vent his spleen and gratify his prejudice by voting against Catholics. The Gazette says.

"The time has come for a revolt against the lobby republicans of Boston and their constant doctoring of laws, not for the benefit of, but to help along corporations, whose servants they are. One stands amazed at the amount of work done by this handful of men, and all through working the zealous A.P.A. elements who go to the legislature. Every act or alteration of law proposed for Boston is whispered as another blow aimed at the Romanists. And this is all the reason given to the Reubens who vote with them."

IT IS IDIOTIC.

The Sun recently referred to a petition to President Cleveland in circulation in this city. The petition deprecates any rupture of the friendly relations between this country and England and suggests on the contrary that an Anglo-American army be equipped to go to Turkey and if necessary take Constantinople.

The individual who is putting this petition around speaks with a decided English brogue and refuses to give his name. The petition is un-American and if everything was known it might be found that the secret service money of England is behind the movement. It is absolutely idiotic to advocate the Monroe doctrine as every good American must and at the same time to favor a movement that would send an American army to assist in taking Constantinople. If America wants to exercise her humanitarian offices she can do so by sending a couple of her ships to Cuba to deport Weyler and his butchers.

No Comparison.

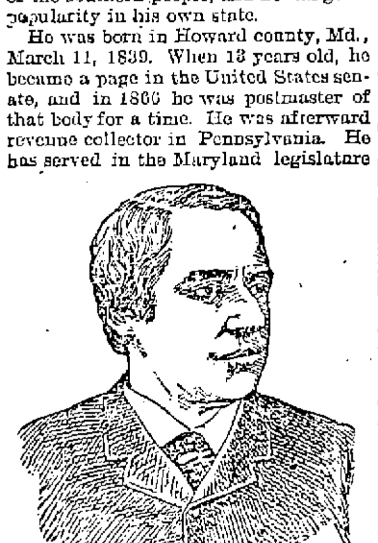

No printing establishment in this city compares with The Sun Job Print in its mechanical equipment and the excellence of its work. Did you ever try it?

ARTHUR P. GORMAN.

Sketch of Maryland's Shrewd Politician and Statesman.

Senator Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland is one of the shrewdest politicians in the country. He is a past master in the art of reticence. Nobody ever knew him to harm himself or his party by a premature divulgement of his or its plans, and he is a natural leader of men. He was appointed a page in congress when he was a little shaver, and has trained under some very shrewd as well as wise politicians in his day. He used to be considered a bimetallist and a friend of silver, but latterly he seems to incline more to the interests of those vast business enterprises whose apprehension is excited by threats of radical financial legislation. His masterly opposition to the force bill some years ago won for him the deathless affection of the southern people, and he has great popularity in his own state.

He was born in Howard county, Md., March 11, 1839. When 13 years old, he became a page in the United States senate, and in 1866 he was postmaster of that body for a time. He was afterward revenue collector in Pennsylvania. He has served in the Maryland legislature for a long period, and was chosen United States senator in 1880. He was then but 40 years of age. He has served in that body continuously ever since, his term of office expiring on March 12, 1899. Senator Gorman is always well behaved. He keeps cool and does not get mad. He never abuses anybody personally, but his counsel is worth listening to. There was a time when many Democrats looked upon him as the coming man for the presidency. Some say yet that he will be president one of these days.

He married Miss H. G. Dongan in 1867. His domestic life is as happy as his public record is honorable. He has a home near Laurel, Md., which is a model of completeness, simple elegance and comfort. One of the first tenets of Gorman's faith is that the conservative business sense of the country, as represented on the farms and in the stores, is the main thought. To that powerful sentiment he makes his appeals and toward that he directs his efforts. He is conservative upon the tariff question, not going absolutely to the lengths of the free traders, but he holds to the doctrine that a moderate amount of protection is for the good of the people.

HORACE BOIES.

Career of a Farmer, a Lawyer and a Statesman.

Horace Boies, who looms up among the Democratic possibilities as Iowa's favorite son, is a stanch adherent of free silver and tariff reform. He was born about 68 years ago in a little village near Buffalo. He was brought up on a farm and at the age of 16 left home to make a fortune for himself in the wide west. He landed in Racine, Wis., with just 75 cents in his pocket. After working for farmers for awhile he returned to New York without a fortune, but with a determination to get an education. Supporting himself by doing chores for a lawyer, he attended the academy at Springville, N. Y., and applied himself diligently to the study of law.

In 1852 young Boies was admitted to the bar, took a wife and settled in the town of Hamburg, near Buffalo. At that time he was an active Republican and was rewarded by being sent to the state legislature. He had become one of the most prominent lawyers in the western part of the state and removed to Buffalo, where he met Grover Cleveland, then district attorney.

In 1867 Mr. Boies removed to Waterloo, Ia., the home of his wife's parents. He bought a large tract of land and acquired considerable political prestige. Up to 1882 he had been an ardent Republican, but in that year he came out for Mr. Cleveland, stumping Iowa in the interests of the latter and tariff reform. This made something of a sensation, and when in 1889 the Iowa Democrats nominated him for governor he was elected, it being the first time the party had won a state election in Iowa for 40 years. In 1891 Mr. Boies was renominated, but was defeated. Since that time he has lived quietly at Waterloo, where he carries on an extensive law practice and manages a farm of 2,500 acres in extent.

Mr. Boies is a very popular man in his party. He is what politicians call a "mixer," meeting all men on the same plane and extending cordial sympathy or a cheery greeting to high and low alike.

JAMES SMITH, Jr.

The New Jersey Tariff Reformer and His Very Successful Career.

James Smith, Jr., has never held but two offices and the two are about as wide apart as the poles. The first call of the people seated him in an aldermanic chair in Newark, N. J., his home city, and the second call made him a member of the United States senate. Mr. Smith is a native of Newark, and very recently celebrated his forty-fifth birthday. He was trained for a business career and has devoted himself to the work before him with such ability and success that he has amassed a fortune. He manufacturers patent and enameled leather in Newark and has built up the largest business of the kind in the United States. Politics allured him from young manhood, but again and again he refused to enter the arena, preferring to serve as a private in the ranks and to attend strictly to his immense business affairs.

He was finally nominated for alderman, however, and despite the fact that his district was Republican he was elected by a majority that was greater than the number of votes his opponent secured. As further proof of the great confidence the city had in his discretion and quick judgment, he was nominated for mayor, but for private reasons declined. He was also honored by being tendered nearly every office in the gift of his party in the state of New Jersey, but felt that he could serve his state better as an humble worker.

In 1892, however, at the urgent request of his party he consented to stand for United States senator and was elected to the senate as a Democrat to succeed Hon. Rufus Blodgett, Democrat. He took his oath of office March 4, 1893—his term of office will not expire until March, 1899. He has made his presence felt since he took his seat in Washington and he is regarded as one of the ablest and most aggressive tariff reformers in the senate. He has a thorough grasp upon public affairs and when the proper occasion offers can make a speech worth hearing.

MRS. GOOLD'S GRATITUDE

HOW SHE WAS RESTORED TO HEALTH.

Condition Before and After the Birth of Her Child.

From every city, town and hamlet on this vast continent, come letters from suffering women; from those whose physicians have been unable to assist them, or from that numberless class whose confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the curative properties of her Vegetable Compound is unbounded.

Every letter received from women is recorded, and hundreds of volumes of cases treated aid in furnishing practical information for the women of to-day. No letters are published without the request of the writer. The strictest confidence is observed. The following letter represents thousands:—

"I always enjoyed good health until six months before the birth of my babe. Then I was very weak; my back ached all the time. My physicians said I would be all right after the birth of the child, but I was not, although at that time I had the best of care. The pains in my back were almost unbearable. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form; menstruations were painful.

"Any work or care would entirely unnerve me. When my babe was 11 months old, friends persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one bottle I felt the effects. My back did not ache so badly, and I felt stronger. After taking four bottles I felt well. My ambition returned, menstruations were painless, leucorrhœa entirely cured, and I could take care of my babe and do my housework. I shall always recommend your Vegetable Compound for all women, especially for young mothers."—MRS. H. L. GOOLD, Oregon, Wis.

If Mrs. Goold had been well before the birth of her child, subsequent suffering would have been avoided. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should always be taken before and after birth, in order that the system may withstand the shock.

5 O'CLOCK EXTRA

RAPPINGS HEARD

From the Entombed Miners at Twin Shaft.

ANOTHER CRASH OCCURRED OF FALLING ROCKS.

Which Dampened the Hopes of Rescuers.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 1.—There are 59 men, living or dead, imprisoned in the depths of the doomed Twin mine. This is the official number, and there is no reason to think it is incorrect. The company has completed a careful canvass of all men who were at work on Saturday night, and the sum total of the men lost in the disaster, English-speaking and foreigners, aggregate this figure.

At 8 o'clock last night, the situation was more encouraging than it had been at any time since the cave-in. At that hour, the men who had been at work since 3 o'clock came out, and the 8 o'clock men went on duty. The afternoon men reported that they had reached the edge of the fallen rock, and had begun to load it in cars, which are hoisted to the head of the slope by a stationary engine.

The point where the men are supposed to be is still 600 feet beyond. The night shift continued the work of loading the debris. The gas is not so bad as it has been, and there is no sign of the river water flowing into the mine. One of the miners said they had come across two cars containing a number of tools, of various kinds, which had been used by the miners.

A much larger crowd gathered about the workings yesterday, drawn, doubtless by the report that the miners had begun digging, and might find some of the bodies reasonably soon. Foreman Richards could give no definite idea of the progress of the workers, because it varies at different points, according to the solidity of the debris.

When the 11 o'clock shift came out of the mine, some of the men reported having heard what they thought were rappings in that part of the mine where the victims are supposed to be imprisoned. This immediately revived the hope that the men might be alive, although the officials place little reliance on this story. Five men, headed by Peter Lohr, volunteered to crawl over the walls and see what could be seen. They were told that they made the journey at their own risk, and replied that they were satisfied. They were Peter Lohr, Dave Connell, James Mahon, James O'Brien and James Lynott, all single men.

Another extensive cave-in occurred in the working of the Twin shaft early this morning. The cave-in was in that portion of the mine where the victims are thought to be. It made a terrible report, and was heard all over the town. The fall must have been a heavy one. It had the effect of driving the rescuers out of the slope, for the timbers around them immediately began to sway and crack. A fall in the slope may occur at any moment.

The news of the second cave-in had a most disouraging effect on everybody. The five men who volunteered to climb the walls were not caught in this morning's fall. They climbed safely to the head of the slope.

The mass meeting of citizens, held in the Pittston Opera House last night for the purpose of taking steps to provide relief for the families of the victims, was largely attended. Committees were appointed to solicit subscriptions and provide for the immediate relief of those in want.

Curtailing Mayor's Power.

Baltimore, July 1.—In the superior court yesterday, Judge Ritchie handed down an opinion adverse to Mayor Hooper in the case of Noble H. Creager, the council's appointee as collector of city taxes. The opinion holds that the action of the council in repealing the ordinance giving the mayor the appointive power was legal, and practically leaves the mayor with no powers, other than those of carrying out the dicates of the council. The Creager case is looked upon as a test case, and applies to all city offices formerly filled by the mayor.

Destructive Fire In Brooklyn.

New York, July 1.—Fire broke out about 12:30 o'clock this morning in George W. Piper's Long Island kindling wood factory, Brooklyn. The flames quickly extended to the extensive lumber yards of E. C. Smith, and from there to Ritchie, Brown & McDonald's iron works, posts, and McCord's iron works, and Braun & Bainbrick's asphalt works. Estimates on the loss range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

In Excess of Predictions.

Washington, July 1.—The indications now are that the excess of government expenditures for the fiscal year ending yesterday will be about $25,500,000, as compared with a deficit of about $43,000,000 for the fiscal year 1895. The receipts for the present month will exceed the expenditures by about $1,400,000.

Convicted of Murder.

Halifax, July 1.—The trial of Peter Wheeler at Kentville, for the murder at Bear River of Annie Kempton, was concluded yesterday. The evidence was all circumstantial. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, after being out a little over two hours. Judge Townsend then sentenced Wheeler to be hanged, Sept. 8.

Mrs. Stowe Dying.

Hartford, July 1.—Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famous author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is dying at her home in this city of congestion of the brain and paralysis. The end is expected within 24 hours.

Shaving It Down.

Washington, July 1.—The treasury yesterday lost $73,800 in gold coin, of which $50,000 was for export to Canada. This leaves the true amount of the gold reserve at the end of the fiscal year $101,512,318.

A BIG CONVENTION

At Chicago and the Men Who Will Lead.

HARRITY, VEST, DANIEL CAMPBELL AND BLACKBURN.

Speculation and Comment as to the Outcome.

One singular thing about national conventions is the unexpectedness with which they assume importance or become comparatively commonplace. Four years ago it was predicted confidently that the Republican convention at Minneapolis would be uninteresting and that the Democratic convention at Chicago would be exciting. The reverse was true. The Republican convention was one of the most exciting in the history of the party and the convention of the Democrats was cut and dried. So it was predicted six months ago that the Democratic convention this year would be commonplace and the convention at St. Louis, with its half dozen candidates running on even terms, would be exciting. Long before the Republican convention assembled its work was cut out for it, while the interest of the whole country has centered for many weeks in the convention at Chicago and its candidate. The hotel keepers of Chicago will be the beneficiaries of this condition of affairs, for, where they looked forward a few months ago to vacant rooms during convention week, they have now the prospect of overcrowded houses. Still the rates at the principal hotels have not been advanced, and at the best of them single rooms with meals have been rented for $5 each. Chicago has many hotels—too many for ordinary occasions. The big houses which were built for World's fair business stand half empty during a great part of the year, and one of the oldest and best of the big hotels of other convention years—the Grand Pacific—has been closed. But the Palmer House is still headquarters for many of the delegations, and the Auditorium hotel, with its big annex, will be crowded to the doors during convention week. In these two the largest crowds will gather, and the streets about them will be packed thick with hoarse, beribboned, red eyed men. Bands will stand beneath their windows serenading state delegations, and clubs of men in long skirted coats with canes in their hands will tramp in and out of their corridors, filling the air with shouts for their candidates. There will be hospitality of a liquid character at the headquarters of the silver states, and music everywhere. And while the crowds rend the air with their shouts below the leaders of the convention will get together in the quiet of their rooms up stairs and map out the business and determine how it will be done.

The Wigwam.

The last convention held in Chicago met in a wigwam erected on the lake shore—a great deal larger than the wigwam in which the Lincoln convention met 36 years ago. The news of that convention was sent to the world by the hand of a single telegraph operator. The convention of eight years ago was held in the Auditorium. Both these were within easy access of the hotels and business places. The Coliseum, in which the convention of 1896 will be held, is more than half an hour's ride from the center of the city and is reached by several lines of street cars. It is a huge building, constructed with a view to just such gatherings as the national conventions. It is 727 feet long by 300 feet wide. The outer walls are 45 feet high and the roof rises in terraces to a height of 105 feet. Twelve steel trusses, each 230 feet wide, support the roof. Exclusive of the vestibule, the interior of the building is 676 feet long.

Twenty-five feet above the main floor of the hall is a balcony. It is 40 feet wide and it runs around the four sides of the building. Forty feet above the main floor is another gallery. The second is 12 feet wide. The whole floor space of the building is 285,000 square feet. It will accommodate 15,000 people during the convention, though the capacity of the building for show purposes can be increased to 50,000 people. The exits are on all sides and the facilities for emptying the hall quickly are ample. The lighting of the hall will be done by 100 arc lights provided with powerful reflectors.

The Democratic national committee will meet in Chicago the week before the convention assembles, and its deliberations will be watched even more closely than those of the Republican national committee at St. Louis. Interest in the contests was keyed up to a high point when Chairman Harrity was quoted in a New York paper as saying that no man who announced in advance that he would bolt the convention under certain conditions should be admitted as a delegate. Mr. Harrity has denied since that he had any idea the gold men would attempt to control the convention by shutting out on contests those who had threatened to bolt in the interest of the free coinage of silver. But the friends of silver have their eyes on the national committee and they will not be satisfied until they know that their friends are to be seated. They, too, have hinted at an advantage to be gained in the recognition of contesting delegations. They are said to be considering the possibility of shutting out the Michigan state delegation on the ground that the delegates and alternates to the state convention did not vote according to their instructions, which in a majority of cases were for the free coinage of silver. This question is not likely to figure seriously before the national committee, and if it is raised at all, it will be in the convention, where ex-Postmaster General Dickinson will have a chance to explain how he elected administration delegates from what was claimed to be an antiadministration state.

The Temporary Chairman.

The national committee, besides deciding the contests of delegations to be placed on the temporary roll of the convention, will choose candidates for temporary officers of the convention, but if the national committee chooses a "gold" man for temporary chairman and the "silver" men are in the majority in the convention, as is now expected, it is quite probable that the choice of the national committee will be ignored, and that the temporary chairman of the convention will be chosen from the list of western or southern delegates. It is not unlikely that the honor of the temporary or permanent chairmanship will be conferred on the senator from Kentucky. Mr. Blackburn, who has routed the administration forces in his state so recently, and who has been indorsed by his state convention as a candidate for the presidency. Vest of Missouri may be one of the officers of the convention if he is not engaged in preparing "Silver Dollar" Bland for nomination. Possibly Missouri's other presidential possibility, Governor Stone, or the man who has routed the administration army in Illinois, Governor Altgeld, will receive honors at the hands of the convention.

JOHN W. DANIEL.

Many seats will be vacant, as I have said, because the opening proceedings of a national convention are largely formal, and it is seldom they have any serious bearing on the convention's after work. When the temporary officers have been elected and the committees have been appointed to pass on the credentials and to propose a permanent organization and rules for the convention, a recess will be taken until the next day, and the crowd will straggle back to the big hotels to march again and cheer again and to hold heated discussions on the currency question in the corridors of the hotels.

Familiar Faces.

There will be many familiar faces missing in the corridors and on the floor of the convention. Maryland's sphinx, Senator Gorman, has hesitated. Brice, too, had announced his intention of staying away, but he has reconsidered since. Ex-Governor Francis of Missouri, who made a losing fight for the administration in his state, and Maffitt, the national committeeman from that state, will be on hand. Francis is the administration candidate for temporary chairman of the convention. Hill of New York, who, as a modest candidate for the nomination, staid away four years ago, will be on hand to make a fight for "sound money" to the last ditch. Whitney, famous as the "Fool Killer" of the convention of four years ago, has decided to lead in the "sound money" cause. Bourke Cockran, who dropped out of politics through his quarrel with the Tammany leaders, will not be in Chicago. He is in Europe nursing a sprained ankle.

Pugh of Alabama will lead the silver forces from his state; Jones of Arkansas, fresh from a triumphant canvass for reelection, will help to make the platform.

After the permanent chairman has been chosen and the permanent roll of the convention has been made up will come what promises to be the real contest of the convention. And it is very likely to be fought out in one of the committee rooms. "What shall the platform be?" is the most interesting and most important of the questions to be determined by the delegates, and as state delegations are well united in most cases, the temper of the committee on resolutions will be the temper of the convention. It will not be like the convention of four years ago in which the friends of Mr. Cleveland told the committee on what platform he would be willing to run. Nor will the convention likely do what that convention did when it repudiated the tariff plank brought in by the committee and adopted that ringing declaration beginning, "Republican protection is a fraud." If there are any compromises to be made on the platform, they will likely be made in the committee. But the fight for consideration will be carried by the minority into the convention hall and the secrets of the committee room will leak out there, so that the country will know just how much has been conceded to gold or to silver, as the case may be.

And then the convention will ballot for its candidates. The candidates will fit the platform this year if present conditions are not deceptive. It has happened that the platform was made to fit the candidates.

The Democratic convention of 1896 promises to be one of the most exciting in the history of the party—even more exciting than that of 1892. It will abound in exciting incidents. The convention of four years ago had only one.

A Mammoth Convention.

On the night of June 23-4, 1892, the Democratic national convention made its nomination for the presidency under conditions which have not been paralleled in the history of national conventions. To understand them thoroughly one must have a clear comprehension of what had preceded the convention, and this is a matter of history so fresh in most American minds that it needs but a brief rehearsal. Grover Cleveland had been president for four years, and had been defeated at the polls for re-election after he had received a unanimous nomination at the St. Louis convention of 1888. David B. Hill of New York, who was lieutenant governor when Cleveland was elected to the presidency first, was a candidate for the presidential nomination. He had been one of the New York delegation to the convention of 1884 when Cleveland received his first nomination, and he had urged Cleveland on the delegates to that convention as the choice of New York, and therefore the strongest candidate the Democracy could put before the country. The promise made by Hill in 1884 had been kept. New York had given Cleveland its electoral vote, and he had been elected—the first Democrat to reach the presidential office since the war. Hill had gained such control of the Democratic party in the state of New York—or at least of that branch of the Democratic party which is in the majority, and therefore recognized as the Democracy of the state—that he knew he could have the indorsement of the delegates to the state convention, and, having that, he expected to go before the convention of 1892, as Cleveland had gone before the convention of 1884, as the candidate of the state of New York. In order to clinch his hold on the convention, however, he had it called at an early date, and because it was called so early his enemies said he was trying to take "snap" judgment, and bitterly opposed the act. Then they made the fact that the convention was called so early an excuse for calling another convention, known as the antisnap convention, which met at Syracuse in the fall of 1891. Thus New York had two full sets of delegates at Chicago—one the delegates of the regular Democracy and the other the delegates of the "antisnappers," as they were known. The 72 delegates of the regular Democracy were instructed to vote as a unit for David B. Hill. The other delegates were instructed to vote for Grover Cleveland.

William C. Whitney.

William C. Whitney of New York, who had been Mr. Cleveland's secretary of the navy, was the manager of Mr. Cleveland's campaign. He was well adapted for the difficult work before him because while in sympathy with the object of the "antisnappers" he was a member of the regular Democracy and of Tammany Hall, its representative in the city of New York. By the advice of Mr. Whitney, the "antisnappers" gave up a contest for the New York seats in the convention—a contest which Mr. Cleveland's personal followers in the convention might have decided in their favor, but which would have been so manifestly unfair that it would have split the Democracy of New York hopelessly.

Before the convention met, the most earnest efforts were made to unite the delegates opposed to Mr. Cleveland on some other candidate. The Hill men were prepared to abandon their candidate—with his own consent—if they could find any one on whom they could unite enough votes to nominate him. At one time the Hill delegates believed they had found a compromise candidate in Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland; and in fact they claimed afterward that they had had Mr. Gorman's consent to the use of his name at one time and that he had withdrawn from the contest suddenly in fear of defeat. Whatever the facts are as to Mr. Gorman, the New York delegation went into the convention hall on the afternoon of June 23 at 5 o'clock knowing that unless they had time to make a combination of some kind before morning they were beaten and Mr. Cleveland would be nominated. Every mention of Cleveland's name was the signal for a tremendous display of enthusiasm. When Mr. Hill was mentioned there were cheers from the partisans of the New York man, but there was silence in the galleries.

David B. Hill.

As midnight approached the nominating speeches were being made. There had been an attempt to adjourn earlier, but it had been shouted down by the galleries and voted down by the delegates. The beginning of the nominating speeches had been greeted with frenzied enthusiasm by the galleries. The people there showed no impatience when the speeches in behalf of Mr. Cleveland were being made. They listened with patience which gave way to enthusiasm whenever the name of their candidate was mentioned. But when Hill's name was placed before the convention the galleries showed themselves impatient of the delay. There were cries of "Vote!" and cheers and hisses and such uproar as made speaking well nigh impossible. Still the Cleveland men stuck steadily to their purpose, and every proposition to adjourn met with a vigorous negative.

The final speech for Mr. Hill—or rather against Mr. Cleveland—was to be made by Congressman Bourke Cockran, one of the ablest men in congress, known as a fine speaker and one who met usually with encouragement from his audiences. But the galleries were in no mood to listen to eloquence. John W. Daniel, senator from Virginia and one of Mr. Hill's partisans, had been howled down in disgraceful confusion, while the placid chairman, Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, beat a mild protest on the desk with his gavel. Mr. Cockran made a futile appeal to the convention to adjourn till the next morning. He was not well. He was hoarse, he said, and the tones of his voice and his whole bearing confirmed what he said. But the physical condition of one man or the comfort of a hundred was nothing to the partisans of Mr. Cleveland when it interfered with their programme. Besides, while Mr. Cockran was evidently unwell, might not his illness be exaggerated? Might not this plea be the last trick played by the opposition? No cry for quarter from any one of Mr. Hill's followers would avail. The fight was to be fought to the death, and that before morning.

It was half past 2 o'clock when Bourke Cockran walked down the aisle and took the platform. His hair was rumpled; his necktie was askew; his whole bearing was that of a sick and dispirited man. But when the cries of "vote" from the galleries began he turned on them so swiftly that those who knew Mr. Cockran saw there were life and energy in him still.

Mr. Cleveland's Nomination.

And so, with the galleries hushed to an unwonted silence, with the sullen beating of the rain echoing through the hall, with the dripping of the water that puddled on the floor, and with now and then an ominous muttering from the thunder that almost drowned the orator's voice, began the last desperate plea of the opponents of Mr. Cleveland. The rain was not more monotonous than the speaker's voice at first, the thunder not more sullen than his tones. But as he warmed up to his subject he brought to his aid every latent resource. His throat cleared, and his voice rang out to the farthest corners of the hall. And the argument to which the impatient galleries were forced to listen that night was such a masterful plea as few who sat there will ever listen to again.

And when this wonderful burst of eloquence was over—this speech which will be renowned in the history of convention oratory—why, then the convention nominated Mr. Cleveland on the first ballot with a total of 617½ votes against 114 for Hill; 103 for Boies of Iowa; 36½ for Gorman, and scattering votes for Stevenson, Morrison, Campbell, Carlisle, Pattison, Russell and Whitney.

And when the work was done and it was moved to make the nomination unanimous, Mr. Cochran arose from the midst of the delegation which had voted solidly for its chief and said, "Mr. Chairman; I want to call the attention of the convention to the fact that upon the motion to make the nomination by acclamation, New York votes aye."

And amid thunders of applause the convention broke up. It was 4 o'clock and the gray dawn was creeping up the horizon when 20,000 tired men filed out of the exits of the convention hall and made their way to hotels and lodging houses under the dripping skies.

NOT SEEKING IT

But Teller Would Accept the Nomination.

ALTGELD HAS A LITTLE PLOT OF HIS OWN

Which He Will Spring Upon the Delegates.

Chicago, July 1.—Delegates to the convention who have arrived generally appear averse to discussing the probability that Senator Teller will cut any figure in the Democratic convention. The senator has a number of personal friends among the silver delegates who have already arrived, and among them are some who would not be averse to his nomination for president. They feel, however, that the conditions are not yet ripe for the springing of his name, and say that it would be opposed to the interests of both Senator Teller and the silver cause to bring him to the front at this time, if at all.

There are also a number of Senator Teller's silver Republican and Populist friends in the city, who are devoting themselves more to watching the course of events than to any active work. The Populists who are here say openly that Mr. Teller is the only man the Democrats can name that they will endorse. The silver Republicans are not so pronounced. They put the matter less pointedly, by saying that Teller is the only man whose nomination would insure the western states to the Democratic ticket.

It is not the purpose of Senator Teller's friends to have him placed in nomination as others will be. Their plan is not to make an aggressive campaign, but simply to be on the ground to answer questions, and to take advantage of any opportunity that may offer.

Congressman Shafroth of Colorado was asked yesterday to define the claims of the Teller men, and replied: "Senator Teller is not a candidate in the sense of seeking the nomination, as could a member of the Democratic party. The friends of the senator who cannot stand gold monometallism are simply trying to impress upon the Democrats the enormous advantage there would be in uniting upon Teller, who could solidify all the bimetallic forces. There is no question that the one man above all others whose name is a synonym for bimetallism is Teller. His speeches upon the silver question constitute a series of treatises upon political economy, which have given him the rank of the ablest statesman in the United States upon that subject. We believe that bimetallism is the paramount issue, and we believe the convention will so declare. We believe it ought to be willing to make some concessions. Senator Teller is the one man that could solidify all of the conflicting elements, and produce a victory for the bimetallic cause."

Altgeld Under Cover.

The fact that the Illinois delegation yesterday postponed its decision as to what candidate it would support in the convention has created almost as much comment as the decision which the delegation reached looking to the abrogation of the rule requiring presidential candidates to receive the votes of two-thirds of the convention. The only explanation made is that it was considered desirable to look the field over more completely than has yet been possible before taking a position. It is intimated, however, that Governor Altgeld, who is in complete control of the delegation, has plans of his own, which are not yet sufficiently matured to be sprung. Those who have talked with him say that he is especially concerned to secure a candidate on the national ticket who will add strength to the Democracy of Illinois.

Ex-Congressman Williams, who made the suggestion that the delegation should indicate its preference, said that he had introduced the subject because he believed that if the Illinois delegation would take a position at this time it could practically name the candidate, because of the influence it would have upon other doubtful delegations. "I shall renew the suggestion at our meeting to be held next Sunday," he said, "and hope it may not then be too late for the state to make its influence felt; but the sooner we act, the stronger we shall be."

Mr. Williams admitted that, while no name had been mentioned in the meeting, his purpose had been to, if possible, secure instructions for Mr. Bland. "He is the man for us to nominate, if we would not be misunderstood. The people know where Mr. Bland stands on the money question, and, while others may be as reliable for silver, they are not so well understood, for no others have been so thoroughly identified with the cause as he has been. No explanation would be necessary with Mr. Bland as the Democratic candidate." Mr. Williams said also that the Democrats of southern Illinois were practically a unit for Bland, and expressed the opinion that Bland could carry the state on a free coinage platform.

The Temporary Chairmanship.

The committee appointed by the Democratic bimetallic committee to confer with the executive committee of the national Democratic committee, will meet the gentlemen composing this organization at the Palmer House this afternoon. Chairman Harrity is expected to arrive today, and to call the executive committee together soon after his arrival. Other members of the national organization have assured the silver committeemen that they will be received soon after the executive committee is called together.

Members of the executive committee, with whom the silver men have conferred, assured them that no steps had been taken looking to the selection of temporary officers. This has had the effect of causing the members of the bimetallic organization to feel that possibly their apprehensions were unfounded and to conclude, that probably they will, however, make their call, there will be no effort at snap judgment, and present a statement of the action of the bimetallic committee, and ask that that committee be allowed to suggest the temporary presiding officer.

If this request is not granted, they will report to their full committee, and the full committee will proceed to select a man for the place, and propose plans for his election at the outset of the convention, in the face of a contrary nomination by the national committee. This course will not, however, be adopted without full warning to the national committee, in case such warning appears to be necessary.

Also, in the event that the national committee consents to the suggestion, the silver men will proceed to name a man for the place. It is even possible that they would consent to a compromise that would allow the national committee to make its own selection of a presiding officer, in case they agree to take a silver man and to submit the name to the bimetallic committee before announcing the name.

The silver men are determined upon the point of not being thwarted in this matter, and are giving their entire attention to it. They will tell the national committee very plainly that the only way to avoid a clash in the convention, and for the national committee to avoid being repudiated, is for them to accede to the wishes of the silver men in this matter. They assert that it will have to be made apparent from the beginning that it is to be a silver convention, and that this can be demonstrated in no way so clearly as by the selection of a temporary presiding officer.

The silver men have given very little attention to the question as to who shall be selected to preside, but speculation points freely to Senator Harris of Tennessee. It is sugested that the task may be quite arduous for one of Senator Harris' advanced age, but his great experience and parliamentary ability, as well as his popularity in the party, will render him a formidable candidate if he manifests a desire for the honor. The name of Governor Hogg of Texas is also mentioned in connection with the selection.

ANTI-PLATT.

Republican Protest Against One-Man Power In the Empire State.

New York, July 1.—At the State club last night the following was given out:

To the Republican Voters of the State of New York—In the campaign now commencing, we have national candidates and a national platform, made by the people and for the people, and meeting the approval of every honest man in the Republican party. The people secured the candidates and the platform by asserting their power and insisting on having their own righteous way. They were persistently opposed by politicians who had usurped authority, and especially and most viciously by the politician who has arrogated to himself all power, both executive and legislative, in this state.

To make this campaign consistent and successful, it seems to us necessary that in our coming state convention we, Republicans of New York, should put the state in line with the nation and should select some candidate for governor who will be no man's man.

To that end we hereby record our protest against the fraudulent and oppressive methods in the party management which have obtained, especially in the cities of New York, Albany and Syracuse. We advise our friends in those localities where the will of the voter is stifled, to hold separate caucuses and district conventions of their own, with which to call upon the friends of honesty and honor in Republicanism to devote their best energies to getting a delegation to the state convention which will be a credit instead of a disgrace to a civilized community.

We pledge ourselves to help our friends in our own localities and in any part of the state, wherever they may be, by all honorable means that lie in our power, and subscribe our names hereto, in the hope that any friend of the people and enemy of the usurped power will call upon us with full confidence, that we shall give counsel and aid from now until the fight is won.

Among the subscribers to the foregoing in New York county are William Brookfield, John E. Milholland, Frank D. Pavey, Edwin Einstein, John Simpson, Henry L. Einstein, General G. H. T. Collis and Jacob Sims. The name of Warner Miller appears as the only signer of the pledge from Herkimer county. A list of the signatures secured from voters in the different counties in the state is given with the statement.

Bostonians Swindled.

Hartford, July 1.—The firm of Long Bros., this city, was notified yesterday that a large consignment of liquor at the freight depot awaited removal by them. The liquor had not been ordered by the firm, and an investigation brought to light the fact that a Boston wholesale liquor house had been victimized by a swindler, who represented himself to be a member of the firm of Long Bros., and that in carrying out his deception he made a large consignment of goods to be shipped here. The amount of money secured from the Boston concern it not known.

Promptly at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, I shall sell without limit or reserve to the highest bidder my real estate as above. Sale rain or shine. The house has ten large, well finished, nicely arranged rooms, also bath room, pantry, store room and cellar, all in excellent order and repair. It is very convenient, every room is a pleasant one and has a fine outlook; the house could very easily and at very little expense be made into two tenements; there are five rooms on each floor. The lot has a frontage of 60 feet on Moore street, 94 feet on Agawam street, an area of 5654 square feet, is nicely graded and laid down to lawn; has a 16 inch solid cement or mortar wall all round it, there is room for a cottage on the lot facing Agawam street by taking away a little shed. This estate is certainly a very desirable and attractive one; the house has most all modern conveniences; was built to order by present owner for his own occupancy and is now given up because it is too large. The lot is one of the choicest on the street, first, because it's the corner one; second, because it's the highest one in the street and third because it's in the best shape. Chances like this don't grow, neither are they found in many neighborhoods. House open for inspection after 10 a. m. on day of sale. J. E. Conant & Co. in charge.

From Other Lands to Get a Hearing on the Questions at Issue.

The council of the federation in Ireland and the chairman of the Irish party, jointly charged with the work of calling an Irish race convention, have issued a call for a convention to meet in Dublin on Sept. 1 "to reconstruct a united home rule party and satisfy the yearning of the Irish race all over the world for a thorough reunion of the political forces of Ireland."

To such a great and hopeful work they invite aid and counsel, and in the exercise of the power delegated by the representatives of the Irish people and in conformity with orders made at a meeting of the trustees and officers of the Irish National Federation of America, held on the 18th of June, they issue the following instructions to the branches of the federation of the United States:

Each branch of the Irish National Federation of America shall be entitled to elect one delegate.

Delegates must be enrolled members or contributors to the support of the Home Rule movement through the branches selecting them as delegates.

Delegates must be elected at a special meeting of the branch called for that purpose, one week's notice of meeting being given.

Credentials must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting at which the delegates are elected; countersigned by the officers of city and state councils, where such exist, duplicate copies to be forwarded to the office of the national secretary, Room 25, Cooper Union, New York city. It is signed by Thomas Addis Emmet, M. D., president; John D. Crimmins, treasurer; Joseph P. Ryan, secretary.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. Henry Brady is serious ill at his home in Lewis street.

Mrs. Clara L. Parsons of this city is visiting friends in Fremont, Nebraska.

Constable Martin Conway is recovering from a threatened attack of pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nesmith are spending a few weeks at North Conway, N. H.

Miss Hattie J. Rhodes of Belvidere has just returned from a pleasant sojourn at Tilton, N. H.

Mr. Rufus Hart and family will spend July at York Beach, Me., where they have taken a cottage.

The water works committee of North Billerica will go on its first trip of inspection on Thursday of this week.

Elected to Masonic Offices.

Arnold S. Welch, 32d degree Mason, and Chas. C. Hutchinson have been elected to first Lieut. commander and Gr. host respectively at the Masonic convention in Boston yesterday.

Knights of Pythias Officers.

Samuel H. Hines lodge, Knights of Pythias, last night elected officers as follows: C. C., Samuel Scott; V. C., Geo. Jeffroy; Prel., R. Read; K. R. S., A. F. Choate; M. F., F. B. Andrews; M. E., John H. Tighe.

Reform Club Election.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Lowell Reform club was held last evening, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, John Hogan; vice president, Thomas O'Loughlin; financial secretary, P. J. Ryan; treasurer, R. J. Fullerton; janitor, John Kenney.

CRISP GOSSIP.

The Bijou club is considering the advisability of holding a jollification meeting in honor of Mike Connolly, one of its members, who got a bite while fishing at Willow Dale yesterday. Had he landed the fish the meeting surely would have been held.

Joe Bickford, the poet, is about to take up his eloquent pen after a silence of several weeks and write an epic in honor of July 4. Joseph has been non-lucratively employed recently and hence the musings of the spirit were unheeded.

Had the census enumerators or the Hogan's alley artist the good fortune to be at the corner of Broadway and Suffolk streets at 7.40 last evening when Officer McCann arrested a man from the North common, they or he would have found a great "graft" for inside of a few minutes there were thousands of children young, old, rich, poor, clean, filthy, etc., etc., in the same and among them I saw at least 50 prototypes of the famous "yellow kid" of Hogan's alley. Where they came from and how they got there was a mystery.

BASE BALL.

The league is now a permanent feature and promises to grow in popularity day by day. The attendance at last Saturday's Union-South End game showed that there is interest taken in clubs other than the Emeralds and Unions, while the results show that there are more than two strong teams in the league. Those who formerly placed the Emeralds, Unions, T. R. and Ts and South Ends as the four strong teams of the league must now admit that the Florence team is in the game, for with the men it played there is no reason why it shouldn't give any of the four a battle. The players are permanent, according to Manager Day, and it will not be surprising to see the Florence club land near the top.

A word about the Unions, heretofore invincible, now an ordinary team. Manager Dunnigan needs more than one pitcher in his coterie. This has been proven in the past three games. Joe Quigley is a clever pitcher, a good player and a gentlemanly young man, but unfortunately is easily rattled, and when once rattled cannot pitch.

When playing his best game there are few, if any better, than Joe, yet in the course of a game he is liable to be knocked out of the box, as has been proven in two of the recent games. Manager Dunnigan should have another pitcher to relieve Quigley, a pitcher other than Fratus, for Tony is foolish to pitch, as every good judge of ball playing will admit. Tony is one of the most valuable men in the Unions and as a fielder has no superior. He shouldn't take a chance of losing his arm by pitching.

Speaking of the Unions, I met Dr. O'Connor of North Chelmsford in town a few days ago looking as healthy as ever. "Babe" (just for old time's sake) was a corking ball player and when a young fellow could play in any position with the best of them. Another North Chelmsford crack ball player who is now out of harness is Jimmy Conners who received his early training at the trotting park. Jimmy has abandoned ball playing for the wheel and has quite a reputation as a long distance rider.

The Emerald-Union game, the famous play off which is scheduled to come off at the Cricket grounds next Saturday, on the afternoon of the glorious Fourth, will be a game in keeping with the day for it will be red hot. The two Murphys, Dannie and Dennie, will play with the Emeralds and they are a tower of strength to the team. The remainder of the Emerald team will be almost the same as before while the Unions in all probability will play the same team as they did on that remarkable day on the Fair grounds.

The Pendergast Pets better known as the Tivoli Terrors an aggregation of ball players which no league could hold are in the game with blood in their eyes and money in their pockets. They have heard much of the Quincy Quakers and the Hub Harrassers, otherwise called the Boyle Blusterers and Kinsella Killers and they want to get on a game with either or both of these teams at any time or place, for any thing or amount with or without gloves to a finish and they want to meet them quickly. Their team is as follows: Killem Courtney c, Well Read p, Skinney Johnson 1b, Parker McDonough 2b, Percival Roche 3b, Diamond McDonald ss, One Furlong lf, Two Furlongs rf, Ed. Welch cf, Rodatie Blake mascot, Bill Quick sub, and two foul flags not yet elected. Address all challenges to Maurice Johnson, Tivoli, Merrimack square, and enclose a stamp and anything else you want.

MARRIED EIGHT YEARS

WITHOUT KNOWING IT, HAS BEEN THOS. J MEADE.

Lawyer Guillet Says He Performed the Ceremony Legally and Recorded It.

Thomas J. Meade of New Britain, Conn., will be a much surprised man when he learns that he has been married for nearly eight years without knowing it, yet such is the case and it came about in this way:

City Clerk Dadman recently received a letter inquiring if there was a record of the marriage in 1887 or '88 in Lowell of Thomas J. Meade and Maggie or Margaret Mack or McNamara.

The letter was from a New Britain Conn., lawyer and an examination showed that people of that name were married July 6, 1888, by J. H. Guillet, justice of the peace.

The information was forwardad and a few days later the following undersigned letter was received:

"New Britain, Conn.

To City Clerk of Lowell:

Dear Sir—Will you go and see the justice of the peace that performed the marriage of Thomas Meade to Maggie Mack and ask if it was legal or not? As I remember when I and she went to him and asked him how much he was going to charge and he made me an answer. I told him I had no money so he took the license away and that was the last I had to do with it. He never performed the marriage on me legally, and this will be proved and make a clear case of it."

A letter was received Monday from other New Britain residents, and the information sent will convince Mr. Meade, if he sees it, that he has been legally married for eight years.

Mr. Guillet says his records show that he was paid for officiating at the marriage and that he recorded it at city hall. He says that he may have told the bridegroom he intended to record the marriage certificate at city hall and thus was not able to give it to him.

CHOIR BOYS

Of St. John's Church the Beneficiaries of a Successful Concert.

The concert given at St. John's Episcopal church last night in order that the choir boys may have a two weeks' vacation at South Wellfleet, drew a fair sized audience. The feature of the entertainment was the presentation of "Diamond Cut Diamond," by Mr. F. O. Blunt and Miss Minnie Clifford. Besides this the choir boys sang the Ave Maria, with Miss Alice Hutchins as soloist and Mr. Charles Paige, Harry Hopkins, Thomas Poole, Harry Gilmore, Miss Hutchins and Miss Harriet Greene gave a variety of musical selections.

Mr. Blunt had charge of arrangements, and he had the assistance of George Walker, Isaac Romaine, Fred Clements, Albert Whitworth and Warren Hill.

YOUNGSTERS HURT.

Little Girl Badly Bitten by a Newfoundland Dog.

A young lad aged about 13 named Milliron was injured while working or playing on the new Moody street bridge yesterday, falling from a staging. He was carried home by a bystander and is as comfortable as could be expected.

Little Georgiana Toisson of Aiken street was badly bitten about the thighs by a Newfoundland dog yesterday belonging to parties unknown.

SPINDLE CITY WHEELMEN

Banqueted at the St. Charles Hotel, Last Evening.

The Spindle City wheelmen dined at the St. Charles last night. The riders were out in force, and had a rattling good time. The president of the occasion was Wallace E. Ferris; Frank Harris was toastmaster, and there were many speakers.

Irish National Alliance.

A new council of the Irish National Alliance was formed last evening with 123 members. It will be known as the Emmet council. Officers were elected as follows: President, Maurice L. Hannafin; vice president, Patrick J. Fitzgerald; treasurer, Andrew F. Roach; secretaries, Michael A. Ryan, John J. Fahey.

The members intend to make the council one of the most flourishing in the state. The regular meeting night will be Tuesday.

Baptist Lawn Party.

There was a reception and lawn party held on the grounds of the Baptist parsonage in Chelmsford yesterday afternoon and evening, the affair being a benefit to Rev. H. A. Cornell. The grounds were prettily decorated and illuminated with Japanese lanterns.

Typhoid in Haverhill.

A BIG LABOR RIOT

By Strikers at Cleveland and Police.

MANY HEADS SMASHED IN THE MELEE.

The Police Fought Fiercely —How It Began.

Cleveland, July 1.—For nearly a month the strike at the works of the Brown Hoisting and Conveying company has continued, with frequent, though individual attacks by strikers upon workmen who had taken their places. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 170 employes of the Brown company were marched from the works, under the escort of 80 policemen, to the car tracks on St. Clair street. A crowd of 2000 men, women and boys had gathered, and began hooting and hissing. Two motor cars came along, and were signalled to stop, but the strikers yelled, "Go ahead, don't stop!" and the motormen increased their speed and whizzed by. The police then marched the men in their charge a block further away to a corner, and halted for another car, and the crowd followed. Some one in the crowd threw a big stone, which struck Patrolman Keidel, and cut his head open.

Deputy Chief of Police McMahon then gave a prearranged signal, and the crowd was given a terrible lesson. Forty policemen swung out into line, and the other 40 closed in around the men they were protecting. The first 40, under command of Captain English and Lieutenant Dunn, charged the crowd with riot clubs, and they hit to break heads. Two rushes up the street sent the crowd in that direction flying, and left a dozen men lying on the pavement with bleeding heads. Then the police charged twice in the oppisite direction, and then down a side street, using their clubs vigorously. They scattered the crowd effectually, and arrested four of the ringleaders after splitting the scalp of one of them. In the meantime, the police guarding the workmen stopped a car almost by force, and sent their charges away. No one was dangerously hurt by the clubbing, so far as can be ascertained, but there are scores of broken heads. Further trouble is feared.

No Pardon For Pension Sharks.

Washington, July 1.—The president has always shown a disposition to deal severely with persons who defraud pensioners, and otherwise violate the pension laws, and this tendency is well exhibited in his action upon three applications for pardons in such cases. These were the cases of Andrew J. Rocks of Georgia, Pal A. Marcellino of New Mexico and Stephen O. W. Brandon of Tennessee, all convicted of offenses against the pension laws. The president denied the application in each case, and his endorsement plainly indicates the repugnance he feels for this class of offenses.

Another Indictment Pending.

Boston, July 1.—The four Syrians who were arrested at Oxford, near Worcester, on the charge of counterfeiting, were yesterday declared not guilty by the United States district court jury. The defendants were not released, however, as there is another indictment pending against them on the charge of having in their possession dies for counterfeiting.

Banquet, Reception and Dance.

Concord, N. H., July 1.—Seven hundred legislators and ex-legislators of New Hampshire enjoyed a banquet in the Opera House yesterday. A reception was held at the state house last evening. A ball at White's Opera House ended the festivities of the first day of New Hampshire's first legislative reunion.

Pardons Refused.

Washington, July 1.—The president has denied applications for pardon in the cases of Meredith O. Sullivan, sentenced in Pennsylvania to one year's imprisonment for embezzling money from letters, and Daniel E. Tillon, sentenced in New Jersey to one year's imprisonment for a like offense.

PLEADING FOR M'KANE.

Friends of Political Crook Think He Has Been Sufficiently Punished.

Albany, July 1.—Rev. David W. Couch, Rev. Mr. Paulson, Victor E. Bedingfield and Mr. Treadwell, headed a delegation of citizens of New York and Brooklyn, which called on Governor Morton yesterday and urged executive clemency in behalf of John Y. McKane, the former Gravesend boss. A personal letter from McKane to the governor was presented by the delegation.

JOHN Y. M'KANE.

It was urged that McKane had fully atoned for his crime, and that outraged justice had been satisfied. It was stated that the unfortunate man's health was in very bad condition, and that if he was compelled to serve his full sentence he would leave the prison a total physical wreck, and would be a burden to his family instead of a help. The delegation admitted that McKane had been justly condemned, but urged that in view of the many peculiar circumstances connected with his case, he should be pardoned. Governor Morton said that he would carefully consider the merits of the case, and would make known his decision in the near future.

To Overhaul Tax Laws.

Boston, July 1.—In accordance with a recommendation made by the late Governor Greenhalge, in his last inaugural address, and in accordance with a provision passed by the last legislature, Lieutenant Governor Wolcott yesterday appointed John Lowell, Alva Barrus, A. A. Carleton, T. J. Coolidge and F. W. Taussig to be a commission to investigate and reform, if possible, the taxation laws of the commonwealth.

Yale Asked to Pay Taxes.

New Haven, July 1.—On application of the board of assessors, Town Counsel Goodhart yesterday gave an opinion that all property owned by Yale college, located outside of the college campus and not devoted to college purposes, is subject to taxation. The assessors will include this property in the new list, and an effort will be made to collect the tax. The college will contest.

Hit Two on Pastor's Side.

Boston, July 1.—A meeting of the Park Street church corporation was held last night, and those favorable to the retention of the pastor, Rev. I. J. Lansing, D. D., were again defeated. It was decided, by a vote of 13 to 2, to appoint a committee of three to act as part of a joint committee, which will request Dr. Lansing to appear before a council, to show cause why he should not give way to a successor. The meeting was very spirited at times, but Dr. Lansing's friends were unable to do much to aid his cause.

Investigation Ordered.

Boston, July 1.—The accident at the boat landing in Marine park, which resulted in the drowning of four children, and injuries to several others, is to be officially investigated. The mayor has already forwarded to the park commissioners a request for full information relative to the construction and control of the float, landing and approaches thereto.

MURDEROUS THIEF

Shot a Lady in the Face and Then Made His Escape.

Providence, July 1.—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of 262 River avenue, was yesterday shot and seriously wounded by an unknown burglar. Mrs. Taylor states that she was asleep in her chamber shortly after noon when she was awakened by the sound of a man rummaging in her bureau. Mrs. Taylor screamed for help, and the man shot her in the face, just below the right nostril. The burglar fled immediately after the shooting. After a period of unconsciousness, Mrs. Taylor rallied, and it is thought she will recover.

Racers Took a Tumble.

Galesburg, Ills., July 1.—The national circuit bicycle meet yesterday was witnessed by 5000 people. The real contest was between Tom Cooper and W. C. Sanger, and the struggle between them was of a desperate nature. In the half mile professional Cooper led, and set the pace, but Sanger overtook him, and for the last 10 rods the two went on a dead heat, and the judges so decided it. In the one mile professional, Cooper again gained a slight lead, and kept the advantage. Within five rods of the wire, Sanger was thrown violently to the ground, the handles of his bicycle coming off, and the next instant all those behind him went down. Seven men were in a heap. It will be several days before the men injured can race again.

WHAT IT IS

What is it? A Sure Cure. That's What.

A year of it.
A year of what?
Pain and misery combined—misery mostly.
Each month worse than the one before.
Not always as bad one day as another.
But that OTHER always made up.
Terribly discouraged many times.
Wondered what would come of it all.
Pains in my back simply terrible.
Kidneys sore as a boil.
Worse in the morning after a night's REST.
REST—I didn't know what it was.
So stiff and lame mornings could hardly get up.
And the pain was there.
And it stayed there.
That is kidney disease.
That is what it IS.
Now the other side.
What is it? A sure cure.
It is just that for everybody.
What is it called?
Doan's Kidney Pills.
Will they cure some one else, but not me?
They will cure you, and them and everybody.
Who says so—the maker of the Pills?
Yes—but your neighbors say so, too.
Needn't go to 'Frisco to those cured there.
Perhaps only around the corner.
Mrs. Mury Gard of No. 4 Noble's Court is the subject of all the above and you can call on her. She suffered a great deal and can tell you of Doan's Kidney Pills—they cured her.
